Thousands Refuse to Return to Mines

ANGERED OVER FDR CALL FOR DRAFT 'CLUB'

War Production Hit as Men Protest WLB Denial of Wage Increase.

BLAST FURNACES DOWN

UMW Leaders Insist Strikers Will Cool Off and Go Back To Jobs Soon.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Coal Administrator Harold L. Ickes said today that the three coal strikes in the past two months had aggravated a fuel shortage which may make it necessary to ration coal.

(By United Press)

Thousands of coal miners, refusing to obey the order of their union and its president, John L. Lewis, failed to report to the mines today raising anew their threat to steel production, essential ingredient of the war effort.

In the central and western Pennsylvania fields, which produces the coal for the bulk of the nation's steel manufacture, only 20,000 of 125,000 miners returned to work. Many of them voted to stay out, despite the back-to-work order of the United Mine Workers union, until they had a contract embodying their wage increase demands.

Their action was reflected immediately in the great steel mills of the Pittsburgh district turning out armor plate for warships and steel for tanks, guns, and ships.

Carnegie-Illinois corporation, the biggest producer, already had been forced to shut down five blast furnaces which had been producing 2,900 tons of pig iron a day, and the Shenango Furnace company was forced to bank one of its two blast furnaces at Sharpsville, Pa.

Officials of the United Mine Workers' locals insisted that the men would "cool off" in a day or two and then decide to obey Lewis and resume mining coal. The chief grievance of the miners appeared to be the refusal of the war labor board to grant them a substantial increase in their daily wage but President Roosevelt's threat to have strikers drafted into the army, was said to have enraged them further.

FOOD 'CZAR' DEMANDED BY HOUSE PANEL

Committee O. K.'s Bill That Would Strip OPA of Price and Ration Powers.

OPPOSED BY PRESIDENT

Measure Gives Davis Authority Similar To That of WPB Over Oil and Rubber.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Reflecting congressional dissatisfaction over home front war operations, the house agriculture committee today approved a bill to create a "food czar" with complete control over wartime food production, distribution, pricing and rationing.

Chairman Fulmer (D., S. C.) said the measure, frowned upon by President Roosevelt, would "create a czar for foods similar to the czars now handling the war production board (WPB) rubber and oil."

The legislation, if it becomes law, would take from the office of price administration all food rationing and pricing powers and put them under the war food administrator, Chester C. Davis.

Approval of the bill was by an 18 to 8 committee vote, with all 12 Republican members and six Democrats suporting it. Eight Democrats opposed.

Such an all-powerful food administrator had been suggested by the Republican congressional food study committee.

The measure was the focal point of a general crescendo toward a Washington climax on the whole issue of food control.

Other developments included these:

The senate worked on a myriad of proposals for limiting government spending, including subsidies to producers to support food price rollbacks.

Reports of improved weather and crop conditions, particularly in midwestern grain, livestock and dairy regions, eased official apprehension over 1943 food production prospects.

Proponents want the authority over food production, transportation, distribution, pricing and rationing placed under Chester C. Davis, war food administrator who now is in charge of production and distribution.

Operators Protest Mine Status

Mine-wage controversy was thrown into new turmoil when the coal mine operators called on the war labor board to restore the government-operated mines to private operation. The new hitch came as the nation's 540,000 miners were preparing to return to work under the truce lasting until Oct. 31. The appeal to the WLB and also to President Roosevelt was made by R. L. Ireland, jr., and Edward R. Burke, spokesmen for the two groups comprising the Appalachian conference. Burke, right, and Ireland, center, are shown with Harry Moses, representing the "captive" coal mines, leaving the White House after protesting to President Roosevelt. (International)

7 of 8 Mansfielders Lost on Bataan Safe

Sgt. Allen, Pfc. Miller Join Others as Jap Prisoners, Parents Told; One of Tank Battalion Unaccounted For.

All but one of a group of eight Mansfielders reported missing more than a year ago in the fall of Bataan to the Japanese had been accounted for today with announcement by the war department that two additional members of a tank battalion that took part in the historic defense of the Philippines were prisoners of war.

Reported prisoners today were Sgt. A. L. Allen, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Allen, 21 Linden road and Pfc. Robert W. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Miller, former Mansfielders now living in Washington, D. C.

Lone Mansfielder among the group sent to the Far East just prior to the outbreak of hostilities in the Pacific and still unaccounted for is Earl Charles.

Charles' mother died about a year ago. His father has since moved to Detroit and it is possible that he may have heard from the war department regarding the fate of his son. Parents of the other soldiers who have kept in touch with each other said today they had received no word from the elder Charles.

Other members of the tank corps which arrived in the Philippines on Thanksgiving day in 1941 and who have been reported prisoners of the Japs include Paul Grassick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Grassick, 331 East Fourth street; John Robinette, son of Mrs.

HIDES BABY

Woman Conceals It In Drawer To Deceive Husband.

YOUNGSTOWN—(AP)—A mother who hid her infant son in a dresser drawer four weeks so the child's father would not know of its existence went to jail today.

Mrs. Gladys Humanskyi, 24, mother of five, pleaded guilty to a charge of neglect before county Judge Henry F. Beckenbaugh.

Judge Beckenbaugh said the woman testified she hid the child because her husband did not wish another. The baby was born without medical attention, the jurist added, and secreted at once in the dresser drawer.

Agents took the baby and a sister to a hospital for treatment.

KICKED UP

Sales Tax Receipts Boosted By Rush For Shoes.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Sales of prepaid sales tax receipts, spurred by soaring sales in the shoe classification, rallied substantially to score a net gain of $136,166.12 for the week ending June 12 over last year's comparable period, State Treasurer Don Ebright reported today.

The last week rush of stamp 17 users sent sales from the shoe classification climbing to $30,512,93 as compared with $17,363.67 for the same week last year.

Only Week Left To Obtain Auto Use Tax Stamps.

With only a week remaining before motor vehicle use tax stamps must be put on windshields, nearly 75 per cent of Mansfielders who will need stamps have yet to buy them.

W. T. Houston, acting postmaster, said today, 2,630 stamps about one-fourth of the amount needed—have been sold to date.

Although stamps will be sold through July 31 they must be on the windshields of all vehicles in operation on or after July 1.

Water Supply to Be Boosted By New Well on 10-Acre Tract

With the city's industries and hot weather demands in homes pushing Mansfield's water supply system to the limit, Mayor W. J. Locke revealed today that the city had purchased 10 acres of land near the Maxwell Springs pumping station in Troy township and plans to drill another well soon to boost the water supply.

The additional land was acquired from Meri L. Smith for $800. A new well, expected to cost nearly $30,000 with the pumping equipment, will be drilled this summer, but it may not get into operation for several months, the mayor said. The well will bring the total to eight at the Maxwell Springs station.

The mayor said the city's industries alone have used 42,700,000 gallons of water in the past month, setting a new high for water consumption.

Adding to the demands for water for homes has been the hot, dry weather which has resulted in the heavy use of lawn sprinklers and garden-watering devices.

O. C. Kalbfleisch, city waterworks superintendent, said yesterday that the Maxwell Springs pumping station output had been jumped to more than 6,000,000 gallons a day since Sunday, bringing all seven wells into use.

Mayor Locke said today he favored the purchase of more land south of the Maxwell Springs station to give the city room for expanding its supply system in an area that has shown it can produce an adequate supply for a population much greater than Mansfield's.

ZONE BUYING OF LIQUOR LIFTED

State Ends Restriction Next Monday; New Rations To Be Quart, Fifth, 2 Pints.

Mansfield and Richland county liquor buyers won't have to limit their purchases to four stores after next Monday when the state liquor department will lift the zoning regulations, it was announced today.

Liquor Director Don A. Fisher said the one quart, one fifth, or two pints liquor ration will be continued during the next four-week period, from June 28 to July 24.

Lifting of the zoning requirements on purchases will permit buying liquor at any state store in Ohio instead of at the store in the area where the purchaser lives.

Under the regulations, Mansfielders have been required to do their buying at the Mansfield store while Richland county residents had to make purchases at stores in Mansfield, Loudonville, Shelby, or Willard, depending upon the section of the county in which they resided.

Fisher said zoning requirements will continue for registration of persons who have not yet obtained a department liquor purchase record. That is, unregistered persons must still apply to the state store in the zone of their residence to qualify for liquor purchase.

Geographic Steel Center Shifts From City to Bucyrus

With the expansion of war industries in the western states, the geographic center of the nation's steel industry has moved from Mansfield to Bucyrus, and Mansfield couldn't do anything about it.

For several years before the west swung into heavy production of war materials, center of the industry followed a line westward across Richland county just north of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company plant.

In the past year, however, it moved rapidly out of the county to a field one mile northwest of Bucyrus, indicating the rapid growth of the steel industry west of the Mississippi river.

Henry Kaiser's new plants in California and the U. S. Steel company's growing industry in Utah have been responsible for the rapid shift of the steel center. A new Texas plant of the American Rolling Mills has drawn the line a little to the south.

Coffee Ration Now Pound For Every Three Weeks.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The Office of Price Administration today increased the coffee ration to one pound for the three-week period beginning July 1, the largest allowance to be made since coffee rationing was initiated last November.

The same ration also will apply for the following three-week period, ending August 11.

Stamp No 21 in ration book No. 1 becomes valid for one pound of coffee on July 1 and expires on July 21. Stamp No 22 will be valid from July 22 to Aug 11. Stamp 24, the current coupon, expires at the end of June.

RAF Develops New Technique For Bombings

Leaves England, Pound Friedrichshaven Then Refuels In Africa Before Blow At Italian Naval Base on Way Back to Home Fields.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Indications that Germany is moving huge forces into France and Italy in preparation to fight off an invasion were reported today by Secretary of War Stimson. There are indications, Stimson told a press conference that "the Germans are materially strengthening their forces in France." He added that reinforcements are understood to be moving in "for the Fascists in Italy."

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A new technique of air bombardment was demonstrated dramatically by several squadrons of RAF Lancasters which early today completed a shuttle roundtrip from Britain to Africa, bombing a German target on the way down and an Italian port on the run home without loss of a plane.

The air ministry disclosed the aircraft which devastated three acres of the old Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen Sunday night continued to a North African base and returned home last night by way of La Spezia, blasting the naval base at the latter port.

This shuttle technique never was used before on a large scale at long range.

The attack on La Spezia was but one of three or more newly reported aerial blows against Italy and her guardian islands.

Bombers of the northwest African air forces made a fire-setting raid Tuesday night on the northeast Sardinian port of Olbia, a communique from Gen. Dwight D Eisenhower's headquarters said. Heavy RAF bombers of the Middle East command generated two violent explosions and a number of fires in an attack on the airdrome at Comiso, Sicily, it was announced in Cairo.

In addition, the Italian high command communique, broadcast from Rome said Allied planes attacked the Sicilian towns of Porto Empedocle and Catania. The Catania raid was reported to have caused 119 casualties and wrecked many civilian buildings.

The Lancasters' extraordinary raid on La Spezia, which has a population of 100,000 and a number of ship and submarine building yards and repair depots was the sixth since the war began.

Air observers said the most obvious advantage was that the raiders were able to land and reservice without retracing a course along which the enemy defenses already had been alerted by the outward passage.

The Lancasters made a run of some 1,250 miles each way, going 500 miles to Friedrichshafen in southern Germany and presumably 750 miles more to the nearest North African bases.

On the way back they winged about 550 miles to La Spezia and 700 home. Thus each trip was somewhat shorter than the regular 1,400 miles round trip to Spezia. None of the planes was lost.

Formations of Allied planes picked up the offensive again in daylight. During the morning aircraft were heard over Folkestone,

HERO: Italian-American Gets Award for Guadalcanal Bravery

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Note to editors of Benito Mussolini's newspapers:

Marine Platoon Sergeant John Basilone, 26, son of Salvatore Basilone formerly of Naples, Italy, and now of Somerville, N. J., has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism above and beyond the call of duty on Guadalcanal. The medal is the highest honor the nation can bestow on its heroic fighting men.

A naval commander sat in his office in the navy department, talking between sips of coffee from a paper cup. In his office were a couple of newsmen and a young naval officer. At another desk in the same room, a yoeman worked quietly, seemingly oblivious to the conversation.

"I don't fall for this stuff about the Italians being just natural cowards," the commander said "I don't care who the man is—Italian or anything else—but give him a cause, a real, worthwhile cause, and he'll fight into the jaws of hell itself."

He took another sip of coffee.

"Now take this Basilone fellow," he continued, pointing to a navy news release. "He's got Italian blood in him—the same kind of blood that was in those fellows who folded up in North Africa. His father was born in Italy. Ten kids in the family, six of 'em boys. Two of them are in the marines—this Johnny kid and George. Alphonse is with the army

ROUND-TRIP: Yanks Fly 2,000 Miles, Score Hit on Cruiser

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The navy announced today that Japanese planes had unsuccessfully attacked small American warships in the southeastern Solomon islands on two different occasions recently.

(By Associated Press)

American bombers flying 2,000 miles round-trip were officially credited today with scoring a direct hit on a cruiser and setting fires visible 70 miles in an attack on the Japanese base at Macassar, Dutch Celebes.

Thirty-eight tons of bombs were dropped

Striking in daylight, on the longest flight yet undertaken from bases in Australia, U. S. Liberators pounded the enemy stronghold in great force and returned with the loss of one bomber, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced.

The lone victim went down when a Japanese fighter crashed into its wing. The two fell together.

On the land front, Australia jungle fighters bloodily repulsed a third straight Japanese attempt to break through their lines in the Mubo sector, 12 miles from the big enemy base at Salamaua, New Guinea, and killed or wounded 64 Japanese for a two-day toll of 164.

Meanwhile, a Tokyo broadcast predicted that the Allies would launch an offensive to recapture Burma in October—once the monsoon rains have ended — and warned the Japanese that new Allied bombing raids on Japan could be expected.

Apparently fishing for information, the broadcast also declared that the Allied victory in North Africa had released British fleet units to join American naval power in the Pacific.

Probe Continues In Express Car Blast at Ashland

ASHLAND—A four way investigation of the explosion of the American Railway Express car on the Erie railroad tracks at the depot early Wednesday continued today as Ashland settled down to the task of repairing damage caused by the blast.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, Federal Bureau of Explosives, officials of the American Railway Express and the Erie railroad today were still trying to determine cause for the sudden explosion of practice grenades and fireworks from the Spencer company at Polk. They have not stated whether their findings will be made public.

Henry Duffner, most seriously injured of the three Erie railroad employes, was reported in an unchanged condition at Samaritan hospital where he is suffering from severe burns. Oliver Highman of Ashland and Clarence Beck of Marion, also injured, were said to be improving.

Ruth Says Baseball to Become War Casualty.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Major league baseball will become a war casualty in 1944—if not sooner—in the opinion of Babe Ruth, home run king of the 20's and 30's.

"I have a hunch that baseball won't survive the current season," the former Yankee told an interviewer last night. "The life of the old sport depends on how long club owners are willing to lose money. It's a cinch they won't open the ball park gates next year."

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

LONDON—(By Wireless)—Second only to the need of winning the war is the need of holding the Allied coalition together afterwards to prevent another war. It is becoming clear beyond any question that Britain and Russia are most anxious to continue the coalition. The only uncertainty is what America will decide to do. Hence any indications that can be given now, such as through resolutions expressing the sense of congress, would help immeasurably toward cementing the Allies against forces that would like to split us all apart again, as happened after the last war.

Clapper

You can search the world over and find no wiser observation than Herbert. Morrison's that after this war no power, however great, will be able single-handed to ensure its own security. The issue, in fact, is much deeper than peace as such. Sometimes peace is like happiness: If you make it the sole object of your existence you may lose not only peace but security.

By attending first of all to security, the chances of peace are made greater. So far as we can see ahead, the best way to make ourselves secure is to continue the present coalition of strong powers that is in process of defeating Germany's second challenge in 25 years.

The British are ready, indeed desperately anxious, to continue the coalition, because it is now clear that Britain, standing alone, is in a dangerously exposed position. That is shown by her 20-year alliance with Russia, and her willingness a year ago to concede almost anything Russia wanted. Dependence on American strength has been the cornerstone of British policy traditionally, and twice American strength has come to the rescue of Britain because the security of Britain is vital to us.

Russia is showing clear indications of wishing to continue the coalition. Dissolution of the comintern was one gesture, indeed more than a gesture, because Stalin thus got rid of a big obstacle to closer relations with Britain and America. Within the last few days an authoritative Soviet review, in arguing for continuation of the coalition, emphasized that it was born out of vital material interests of all parties and therefore rests on more than a temporary or accidental situation. Differences over specific questions do not threaten a relationship so fundamental to mutual advantage, in the judgment of this Soviet review of Moscow foreign policy.

Holding these powers together is the biggest postwar need, on which everything possible ought be done now.

As Sir Will Jowitt told Liverpool businessmen recently, it would be living in a fool's paradise to assume that there would be no danger of war within 50 or 100 years. He predicts, as do most informed persons here, that considerable armaments and military forces will be maintained for some time.

The airpower which America is building is likely to become one of the great military forces in world history, like the British navy and the German army. You can see it beginning to show in the first stages here in our Eighth Air Force, which is likely to do a job as decisive as that of the British Eighth army in Africa.

The destructiveness of air war will grow vastly in the next few months. The coming winter will demonstrate over Europe that here is a weapon which can come as near to destroying civilization as any means nature herself ever used. We must try to control it, not leave it to other individual nations to arm themselves similarly so that each goes around uneasy as to who is about to shoot first. With the big powers in that state of mutual suspicion the world would be a place of unprecedented torment for everyone.

The great work the American air forces are doing will give America the prestige to exert enormous influence for collaboration to maintain the security of our side afterwards. I believe there would be a decided lift and a brighter hope for our side, with a corresponding depression for the Axis, if it could be made clear now that America is going to work for keeps to prevent another serious threat to freedom.

OHIO ASSEMBLY CONVENES FOR BILL SIGNING

$369,000,000 Finance Measure, Pay Raise For Employes Get Final Touch Today.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—The Ohio legislature, which has been in recess since its final working session on June 11, reconvenes today for the sole purpose of having a few bills signed by presiding officers and then going home for the biennium.

When the 95th general assembly votes sine die adjournment, as it is expected to do before nightfall, it will pass into history unless it is recalled for a special session.

Four major bills, passed just before the recess, must be signed before they can be sent to the governor for approval. They are the $369,000,000 general appropriations bill, the $262,000 sundry claims bill, the measure creating a 21-member post-war planning commission, and the bill to assess an unemployment insurance surtax on industries expanded more than 50 per cent by war contracts.

A ten per cent pay increase for nearly all state employes, provided for by the appropriations bill, is expected to be placed in operation by July 15, State Finance Director Herbert Defenbacher said.

The increase is retroactive, and the finance director added that he hoped to have the checks for the back pay from the first of the year ready for distribution at the same time.

The post-war planning commission bill contains a provision for the eventual purchase of $400,000 worth of new state park lands, which was one of the chief stumbling blocks to earlier adjournment.

The senate had insisted that the $400,000 be contained in the appropriations bill, but finally capitulated to the house and agreed to its inclusion in the post-war measure.

In final, approved form, the post-war bill contains an outright $50,000 appropriation for the purchase of options on park lands by the commission, and earmarks $350,000 additional for the purchase of the lands subject to the approval of the legislature.

The surtax on war industries, ranging from one-tenth to one per cent, will be assessed against those firms who have expanded more than 50 per cent and whose reserve in the unemployment compensation fund is less than nine per cent of the annual payroll.

GOVERNORS GO INTO ACTION TO FIGHT BUREAUS

Will Set Up Lobby To Strip Administrative Powers From Bureaucrats.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The nation's governors are going into the legislative lobbying business in what one state executive describes as an effort to "strip federal bureaus of administrative powers."

A motion adopted at yesterday's closing session of the 35th annual governor's conference here directed the conference's executive committee to draft legislation to remove administration functions from Washington bureaus and to set up a lobby to support such legislation.

Gov. Herbert D. Maw (D.) Utah, author of the motion, told newsmen it was a "mandate to the executive committee to draft legislation to strip federal aid agencies of administrative powers and to set up a lobby to support the legislation."

He said the move was aimed primarily at "non-political" bureaus administering federal aid programs. He said these agencies handle social security, public roads administration, public works, employment and similar activities.

His motion was presented as a supplement to a unanimously-approved resolution opposing "further concessions on encroachments on states' rights . . . except as necessary to achieve victory," and calling for "all rights of the states heretofore relinquished to the federal government to further the war effort to be promptly reclaimed" after the war.

In concluding their three-day conference, the governors also condemned "wartime strikes."

Another resolution requested immediate action by the federal government "to the end that adequate supplies of corn and other feed, so essential to our war effort, are at once provided to livestock and poultry feeders, dairymen and manufacturers of feed for livestock and poultry."

It stated further that the "condition leads to the throwing in the market of livestock before it is fully developed and the too rapid increase in the sale of dairy cows, gravely threatens poultry growers and encourages black market operations."

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—Dennis Bruce Zeigler, of Chicago, an operating engineer and an honest, brave union man and the father of 11 children, was murdered on the street near his home on the evening of Feb. 4, 1933. No indictments, no arrests. Nobody ever will be punished for this crime nor for several others like it in which defenseless individuals were killed after they had come into conflict with bosses of unions.

Pegler

Zeigler's reputation was excellent. Two members of the treasury intelligence unit who knew him well give him a clean character. Zeigler had fought for a clean union in his Chicago local of the operating engineers which had been taken over by a mob of which William E. Maloney was the boss. He knew the union's funds were being mishandled and had reported certain information to the government. He also had pleaded with William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, for help in rescuing rank and file workers from the oppression of a racket which kept him and others out of jobs while favorites of the mob got the jobs.

On Jan. 9, 1933, Zeigler wrote to Green: "I am writing you in the interest of a large number of engineers, hoisting, portable and stationary, located in various cities and towns throughout the United States," and said that many of the officers had so muscled their way into local unions that the rank and file despaired of relief within the international or parent body.

"I believe," he told Green, "you have been thoroughly advised of the corruption. It is a by-word all over the country. The membership is sick, tired and disgusted with being dominated by the worst form of racketeers and hoodlums in America."

Green refused to help Zeigler who therfore wrote him again on Jan. 18, saying: "You say, 'Surely there is a way by which your complaints can be considered and adjusted.' Do you have in mind any tribunal to which we may go? We are not permitted to assemble in convention. Whole local unions are voted by 'supervisors' appointed by the president of the international. Our local unions are bodily disfranchised. The votes of other locals are flagrantly miscounted, so that we may be denied the privilege of assembling in convention. In the absence of a convention the only remaining tribunal is the officers themselves whom we charge with misconduct."

There was much more in Zeigler's letters, all of it unanswerable and the man told the truth.

Nevertheless, on Jan. 23, Green threw his influence on the side of the brutal racketeer, Maloney, since risen to the international presidency of the union, which he rules by might and terror along with the notorious Jersey thug, Joe Fay. Green threw his influence against Zeigler and the workers.

"Your letter dated Jan. 18 makes quite clear what I suspected when I received your former communication," he wrote. "The spirit which you have displayed shows you are not so much seeking redress of real grievances as you are seeking to denounce the officers of the labor movement, myself included, and to utilize real or fancied wrongs as an instrumentality through which you can engage in the denunciation of the labor movement and its officers."

On Feb. 23, Zeigler made a statement in which he said he had been pursued on the street by two of the high racketeering officers of the union, one of whom yelled "I will kill you yet."

Zeigler reported this to one of his friends in the treasury intelligence.

The next night as he was going home to dinner, a street light was blacked out at a point near his house and as he reached that spot a gunman jumped out of a car and shot him three times.

As Maloney rose in the racket and in the dirty underworld politics of unionism and the New Deal machine of Chicago, he grew rich and rose even higher in Green's favor.

On Aug. 15, 1941, the mob and a lot of visiting racketeers including Fay attended a testimonial dinner for Maloney in Chicago and Will Green attended in his official person as president of the American Federation of Labor.

And this is what Green said of Maloney that night: "Among other things, Bill Maloney is a highly efficient administrator and executive of great talent and more than that though there is no need to tell you people here tonight who know Bill, a loyal, intelligent, honest, courageous leader of organized labor."

ILLNESS FATAL

John W. Hardman, 66, Was Native of Cardington.

John Warren Hardman, native of Cardington, died today at 9:15 a. m. at the home of his sister, Mrs. Nellie Draves, 118 North Mulberry street, following a lingering illness. He would have been 66 years old next Tuesday.

Mr. Hardman had lived with his sister only two weeks, coming here from Passiac, N. J., where he lived for a number of years.

He is survived by his wife and two sisters, Mrs. Draves, and Mrs. Flora Rahm, Toledo. He was a member of Solar lodge, I. O. O. F., at Passiac, N. J.

The body was taken to the Finefrock funeral home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

GUFFEY'S JIBE GETS GUFFAWS

GOP Leaders Say They Pay $3.50 For $8,000 Meal.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Republican business leaders who dined on chicken last night at the exclusive Duquesne club had only guffaws for Democratic Senator Joseph A. Guffey's charge they were attending an "$8,000-a-plate feast of Belshazzar."

National GOP Chairman Harrison Spangler, one of the 150 guests at the dinner, said Guffey's statement, made Tuesday in the senate, sounded "like a New Deal promise."

Charles J. Graham, president of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, said the dinner actually cost $3.50 a plate."

SALE WILL AID BLIND PERSONS

Seven Mansfield Women To Offer Articles In Sale at Downtown Store.

Seven women can turn a mighty wheel when they set their minds to it.

In this case the wheel revolves around philanthropic projects of the Mansfield Women's Civic club.

Tomorrow and Saturday the club will again turn efforts toward the sale at the R. B. Maxwell company of articles made by the blind of Richland county and other counties throughout the state. The club has been assisting the state blind commission in such sales for more than 15 years.

Last winter the club was awarded second honor in the state for high percentage of sales. In the past nine years the club has won first or second recognition.

Mrs. James Bailey is president of the group; Mrs. Elmer Post, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. C. H. Henkel, vice president; and other members include Mrs. Ambrose Middleton, Mrs. Fred Nixon, Mrs. Sidney Palmer and Mrs. Joseph Johnston.

For the past seven years the seven women have met almost weekly to further some project of benefit to the community. Each Valentine day they entertain children of the Crippled school at West Fifth street elementary building with a dinner party. Often they take treats to residents of the Richland County home and time is spent in making scrap books for the Crippled children at the Elyria hospital.

Proceeds from the sale of articles made by the blind is given to unfortunates who make these items in their own homes.

HEADS PASTORS

Rev. Paul B. Zimmerman, former Morrow county pastor, has been elected president of the Hancock county Ministerial association. He is now pastor of the Rawson United Brethren church in that county.

While serving as pastor of the Shauck church in Morrow county before going to Rawson six years ago, Rev. Zimmerman made his home in Johnsville.

Local victory gardeners with more green vegetables than they can eat or might use the way one Mansfielder found to dispose of the excess harvest. The gardener called the Community Fund office where an investigation found a needy family unable to plant its own garden to share in the produce. If you have more vegetables than you can use, a telephone call to the Community Fund office will get you the name of a needy family you can help.

What to do with traffic lights in downtown Mansfield after midnight, is bothering city officials who have been asked by the Office of Defense Transportation to work out economies in the operation of lights. The city is considering keeping the downtown lights on "caution" during the last half of the night rather than turn them off, Mayor W. J. Locke said. Lights at schools and in a few outlying districts have already been turned off to save electrical power and to make it unnecessary for motorists to stop at some intersections. The mayor said he did not think it was advisable to follow the ODT request to remove the 400 "stop" signs in the city to save rubber. Removal of the signs would be certain to lead to more accidents, he said.

A multiplicity of toes is the distinguishing feature of a family of cats owned by David and Mervin Mosier, Mansfield R. D. 2. When they owned a cat with six toes on its front feet and five on the back the owners considered that they had quite an oddity. But this was nothing compared to the batch of kittens the many-toed cat had. Two of the kittens have 7 toes on each paw and the other two have 6.

RESTORES SOME FUNDS TO FSA

Measure Before Senate Places Loan Program In Control of Food Administrator.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Senate acceptance of the highly-controversial 1944 agriculture supply bill, with a new "compromise" farm security administration amendment tacked on by the house, was regarded as likely today.

The agriculture bill, back once again in the hands of a senate-house conference committee, would restore a limited amount of funds to FSA's loan and tenant purchase program.

Earlier, the house had abolished all funds for the FSA while a house appropriations report criticized the agency for its experiments on unit farming which, it said "seemed to resemble the collectivist practices followed in Russia."

Under the new amendment, however, the two programs would be placed under control of War Food Administrator Chester Davis with expenditure of $60,000,000 authorized for rural rehabilitation loans—$37,000,000 less than was originally asked by FSA—and $20,000,000 for farm and home management assistance.

Under the new arrangement, WFA Chief Davis would decide what type of machinery will be used to run the two programs.

Rep. Cooley (D., N. C.), chairman of a subcommittee making exhaustive studies of the "collective" farming practices of FSA, disclosed however, that Davis proposes to "completely liquidate" the unit farms by the fiscal year 1945.

DIES AT AGE 80

A. T. Ferrell, Multi-Millionaire, Was Native of Shiloh.

SHILOH — Word was received here today of the death in Saginaw, Mich., of Albert T. Ferrell, 80, multi-millionaire manufacturer, and benefactor of this community, where he was born.

Mr. Ferrell was the son of the late Silas and Druzilla Ferrell, and although he left Shiloh many years ago never forgot his home town.

One of his many gifts was the town's first-class baseball diamond. On another occasion, he gave American flags to the school in such a quantity that there was a flag for every pupil. He also generously supported the Mt. Hope Baptist church.

A cousin, Frank Ferrell, lives here, and his only other survivor is a foster-daughter in Saginaw. Funeral services will be held there, but arrangements had not been completed today.

LAWMAKER ILL

Representative Griffin of Morrow County In Hospital.

MT. GILEAD—It was reported here today that Frank I. Griffin, Morrow county Republican representative in the general assembly, is gravely ill with peritonitis in Mt. Carmel hospital in Columbus.

He was unable to attend today's final session of the legislature and Mrs. Griffin said a crisis was approaching.

SUE AND SAM were a brother-and-sister dance team, and they danced like dreams. They did pretty well, too, for kids—a few night club engagements, a couple of shows, and a batch of good reviews in their scrapbook. Most people thought they were headed for the kind of stardom achieved by Fred and Adele Astaire.

Then Sue met a Critic. The critic liked her dancing, and Sam's too, but he saw in Sue the makings of a great dramatic actress, and he told her so. Under his spell she began to dream of herself as the heroine of serious plays, and gradually her interest in hoofing faded. Finally, encouraged by the great man, she took the biggest step in her life—broke up her partnership with her brother, and took a job in a summer theater.

Kilgallen

Of course, Sam was heartsick. His career was left high and dry, because he'd never danced alone, and more than that he was haunted by the fear that Sue wasn't quite as good a dramatic actress as she and the critic thought.

Sue was playing in her third drama in summer stock (a minor part) when one of those breaks you read about in fiction actually came to her. A famous producer long-distanced her with a fabulous offer: The dancing star of his show, a big "name" in musical comedy, had been stricken suddenly and seriously. She was out of the show. If Sue would take the next train to Broadway, the part was hers.

A few months before this, Sue would have been on that train before it stopped in the station. But now she hesitated. She called her Svengali on the phone and asked his advice.

"Don't take the part under any circumstances," the critic told her. "Musicals are a waste of your time. Stick to the drama."

She stuck for a couple of years in stock, in road companies, in a couple of Broadway shows that folded quickly. She wasn't bad, but she wasn't any Helen Hayes, either, and nobody hinted that she was.

Meanwhile Sam had gone to Hollywood, just kicking around looking for the kind of a job a fellow could get who didn't have any partner. And he got a job—a small part in a big movie. It was a dancing part, but it called for a little acting, too, and although Sam had never had many illusions about his dramatic ability, he took direction well and did the best he knew how.

Well, the movie reviewers told you how he made out. He was hailed as a "find." He got raves. He got a raise. He got a new contract and the promise of better and better roles and eventual stardom.

The public is aware of Sam now—even as it's forgotten Sue.

But you can't print that. Because fate is giving Sue another chance, and this time she's not asking the critic's advice. Sue is going to Hollywood, where Sam is getting her a job in the movies—as a dancer.

I wish I could write this story the way Tony Romano told it to me. But there are no keys on my typewriter to adequately indicate the accompanying gestures. And the way Tony tells the tale, it needs gestures.

However, with the aid of a little parenthetical pantomime, I may be able to get the story over to you.

Tony was telling me he saw five football games last fall in which John Carroll university and his son Joe played. Here's his story.

I went to see the game at Akron. Score 6 to 6.

After the game I went to the dressing room. They ask me: "You his father?"

"Yeah."

"Go on in."

There's Joe. (Here Tony bows his head in both hands. A picture of complete dejection.)

"Whatsa matter Joe?"

"We don't win."

"That's all right, Joe. You don't lose."

"We don't win."

Joe don't care about tie. He don't care about lose. Joe wanta win.

Coach goes down the line. He give everybody hell. He comes to Joe, He don't give Joe hell.

(Here Tony reaches out his hand, goes through the motions of patting on the back.)

"Nice go, Joe."

I see Joe play Reserves. (Western Reserve.)

Joe has the ball. 'Nother fella right beside him.

Here come two big Reserves guys. Joe hands other fella the ball. Joe takes care two big Reserves guys. Other fella makes touchdown.

That's all of Tony's story. Funny story? Well, yes, and no. If I'd had this story last Sunday I'd have used it for a Father's day yarn.

Mell Ott, manager of the New York Giants, was named the Father's Day Father in sports. Why, I don't know.

But if I'd had this story last Sunday, I'd have named Tony Romano the Father's Day Father in Mansfield sports.

First feeling of the average father when the nurse comes out of the delivery room with the news: "It's a boy," is one of pride. It's a feeling some fathers keep through life, and all fathers want to keep. You can see pride in his son, Joe, breaking out all over Tony when he tells his story.

Tony had reason for further pride in his son Joe when he was telling me about those football games.

Joe had called up a few evenings before from Fort Meade, South Dakota, to report he had passed examinations for officer-training. Although he came home from John Carroll after the basketball season to enter service, Carroll gave him credit for a full year of college work. That helped.

Until he starts officer training Joe's address is:

Dodgers Climb In Flag Race

Only Half Game Back of 'Big League' Cards.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer)

THE world champion St. Louis Cardinals are supposed to be the only big league team in the big leagues this year, in the opinion of the best judges of baseball talent, and this strangely enough is paying high tribute to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Cardinals are good; so good that they can keep players like Jimmy Brown and Johnny Hopp and Danny Litwhiler lolling on the bench. On the other hand the Dodgers are old and doddering, with doubtful pitching, a glaring infield gap and a confusing outfield.

Yet the standings today show this outfit of oldtimers, of whom only one regular is under 30 years of age, is just half a game out of first place in the National league and harassing the Cardinals every step of the way.

Currently they are on a six-game winning streak with five of these victories coming at the expense of the New York Giants, who lost both ends of a doubleheader yesterday 7-2 and 6-0 and stumbled into the cellar.

The Cardinals were clipped by the Cincinnati Reds 8-3.

At Chicago the Cubs divided a doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates to move out of last place for the first time since early May. Claude Passeau pitched a five-hitter to win the first game 4-1, but the Pirates battled back to take the nightcap 7-5.

The Boston Braves nosed out the Philadelphia Phillies twice 1-0 and 4-3 in a pair of air-tight pitching struggles.

The American league also produced some dazzling pictures, not the least of which was in a night game at Philadelphia as the Boston Red Sox beat the A's 1-0 on a fourth-inning home run by Leon Culberson.

The New York Yankees and Washington Senators split a pair of shutouts to remain two games apart at the top of the standings. Milo Candini, the Senators' sensational rookie, achieved his seventh triumph without a defeat in the first game 8-0, allowing only six hits and himself hitting a home run and a double. His victim was Spud Chandler. Ernie (Jumbo) Bonham retaliated in the second game with a 4-0 blanking.

Hal Newhouser limited the Cleveland Indians to five hits to win 3-1 in the first game of a doubleheader and then Cleveland captured the second 9-6 in 11 innings.

The Chicago White Sox advanced into sixth place by trimming the St. Louis Browns 4-3.

MEETING SET

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Mid-summer meeting of the American Association board of directors will be held in Indianapolis, Tuesday, July 6, President George M. Trautman said today.

Somethin' Strange In This Picture---Whirly's Third

It isn't often the photographer gets a picture of the finish of a race in which Whirlaway, all-time money winning champion of the race tracks, isn't in front, but here is one. "Mr. Longtail," of the Calumet Farm, finishes third (arrow) behind his stablemate, Mar-Kell, at Washington park, in a mile race. It was Whirly's first start of the year. He did come on in the stretch but wasn't pressed when it was seen his stablemate had the race won. King Abbey is second. Whirly now has won $561,161.

Tire Edges to 1-Run Victory

Defeats Local 758 In Indus Softball.

Mansfield Tire and Local 758 hooked up in a ding-dong battle in the Industrial softball league last evening, with the Tire barely edging out an 11-10 verdict.

It was the bright spot of the league competition as other games developed into easy wins for Westinghouse over Barnes 13-4, and Tappan over Great Lakes Local 2845 by a score of 20 to 7.

Young Bill Regula, starting on the hill for Great Lakes, fanned seven of the Stovemen, but couldn't stop the merry-go-round.

Keiser hit a home run for the Tire, Prosser for Tappan, and Brinkerhoff for Great Lakes.

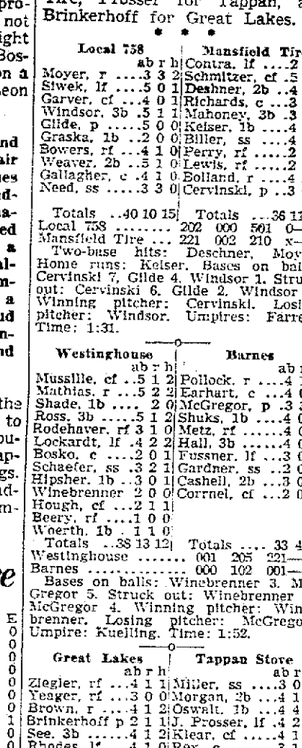
Next for Haegg



America's premier miler, Gil Dodds of the Boston A. A., shown winning a recent race, is expected to be the next worthy opponent of Gunder Haegg, the Swedish distance star. Dodds would like to meet Haegg in the mile or 1,500 meters. Dodds' most recent effort was cracking the American mark in the 2,000-meter run. He did this in an invitation track meet at Passaic, N. J.

Brewers Win Ten Straight

Lose Ground In AA; Indians Cop Doubles.

(By Associated Press)

Despite a winning streak that has reached 10 games, the challenging Milwaukee Brewers discovered today they were no closer to the American Association's league leading Indianapolis club than they were six days ago.

Worse still, a glance at the standings disclosed they even were farther behind than the records showed them two days ago.

This odd situation resulted because of Indianapolis' ability to win double headers. In six days the leaders have played three double bills and swept them all. They did it for the third time last night, and despite the fact Milwaukee won again, Indianapolis increased its first place edge from a game and a half to two full games. Here is how they stand today:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Indianapolis	29	14	.674
Milwaukee	30	19	.612

Milwaukee hung up its 10th victory in a row in a morning game, defeating St. Paul, 8 to 1.

Indianapolis put on two belated rallies to turn back Columbus, 2 to 1 and 8 to 4. In the first game Red Barrett held the Indians without a hit for 5 and 2-3 innings of the seven inning contest. But in the seventh three straight Indianapolis hits tied the score and the winning run came in when second baseman Jahnny Antonelli threw to first on an attempted double play. In the second game the Indians went into the sixth inning trailing 3-0, but then scored heavily in the next two innings.

Toledo and Louisville split even in a double header. Toledo rallied in the last inning to win the opener, 3 to 2, then lost the nightcap, 9 to 3.

At Kansas City, Minneapolis beat out the Blues, 2 to 1 on Frankie Trechock's single and an error after two other Millers had singled in the seventh.

GOING BIG LEAGUE

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A conference between Albert C. Sutphin, owner of the Cleveland Barons hockey team, and Mervyn (Red) Dutton, president of the National Hockey league, two weeks hence, may result in the Barons' being admitted to the National league, the major circuit from the American league.

Fears Baseball Won't Last Season

CLEVELAND —(INS)— "I have a hunch that baseball won't last the current season," Babe Ruth, sultan of swat, said yesterday as he sadly predicted that America's favorite sport would be shelved when club owners get tired of losing money.

Ruth, in Cleveland for the newspaper carrier-boys' party held yesterday, said that the ban on pleasure driving would prove fatal to gate receipts and cause a coma in the national pastime, probably this season, but he's sure the gates won't open next year.

KINGS COUNSEL COPS FIRST 1943 VICTORY

MARION —(INS)— Kings Counsel, world's champion two-year-old pacing colt last year, today recorded his first victory of the 1943 season—the hard way.

After losing the first heat, Kings Counsel came back to annex the next two in the three-year-old pace event at the Little Grand Circuit races at Marion last night. Dr. H. M. Parshall, of Urbana, was the driver.

Segura Form Amazes Riggs

Calls Present Crop of Youngsters Good.

By TOMMY DEVINE

EVANSTON, Ill.—(U.P.)—Bobby Riggs, former Davis-cup star and twice winner of the national singles crown, today "looked in" on the 59th annual national intercollegiate tennis tournament and passed favorably on the youngsters competing.

Riggs turned professional two years ago at the top of the amateur heap. When the war knocked the bottom out of the annual pro tours, Bobby went to work in a Minneapolis war plant. He's now awaiting a military service call.

"The six seeded players here compare very favorably with any group of youngsters that have come in to big time tennis circles in the past five or six years," Riggs said as the tournament moved into the quarter-final round of the singles and the third round of the doubles.

"Pancho Segura of the University of Miami is extremely brilliant," Riggs said, "and I think he'll justify his top-seeded position.

Riggs expressed amazement at the power Segura has with his unorthodox, two-handed fore-hand drive.

"I played against Jack Bromwich, the Australian star who used a two-handed grip in the 1939 Davis cup matches," Riggs recalled, "but Segura's two-handed shot is different and he hits it much harder."

The thing that amazes Riggs most was Segura's court-covering ability.

"Just remember that his swing is shorter with both hands on the racquet," Bobby pointed out. "That means he must take an extra step every time he hits the ball and in a long, gruelling five set match that calls for much extra effort."

With Riggs watching him, Segura led the favorites through yesterday's third round. Pancho advanced by beating Walter Driver, bespectacled University of Texas performer, 6-3, 6-2.

All other seeded stars kept pace with Segura and moved up as expected. They were Tom Brown, jr., of California; Earl Cochell of Southern California; Earl Bartlett of Tulane; Jim Evert of Notre Dame and Robert Odman of the University of Washington.

The unseeded stars who won to roundout the bracket were Wayne Anderson of Tulane and Robert Kimbrell of Southern California.

GREENBERG REACHES NET QUARTERFINALS

CINCINNATI —(INS)— Seymour Greenberg, of Chicago, national clay court champ, today was in the quarterfinals of the 42nd annual tri-state tennis tournament.

However, he won't play until Friday because he succumbed to the heat in defeating Andy Hittle, of Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-0. Bill Talbert, of Cincinnati, downed Gordon Naugle, also of Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-2.

Milnar Finally Wins One

Jeff Heath's Homer In 11th Decides It.

DETROIT—(AP)—Al Milnar had finally caught up with his first pitching victory of the season today.

The tall southpaw received credit for the Cleveland Indians' 11th inning 9 to 6 triumph over the Detroit Tigers after the Tribe had dropped the opener of yesterday's double header 3 to 1.

Big Al was the subject of a recent "one more chance" declaration by Manager Lou Boudreau, but succeeded in doing the thing his two predecessors, Vern Kennedy and Mike Naymick, failed to accomplish—preventing the Tigers from hitting home runs.

Five of the Bengals' six tallies in the nightcap were the product of homers by Rudy York, Pinky Higgins and Dick Wakefield.

Higgins' round tripper accounted for two runs in the opening inning but the Redskins went out in front with a five-run blast against Hal White in the second. The Tribe notched another marker in the sixth but Wakefield's circuit drive in the home half matched it. The Tigers collected another tally in the seventh and moved within two runs of the Indians. York then deadlocked the score with a two-run homer in the eighth but Jeff Heath's third circuit blow of the year with Ken Keltner on base decided the issue in the 11th.

Hal Newhouser allowed the Tribe only five hits in the opener. Jack Salveson started for the Indians but was chased from the mound by a two-run attack in the initial frame.

Jim Bagby seeks his eighth win in tonight's twilight game which closes the series. Virgil (Fire) Trucks, Detroit's speedbal ltwirler, is his opponent.

PLAY RUBBER

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds go after the odd game of their three-game series this morning in another of the efforts to get the war workers to the ball park after the swing shift.

Harry Gumbert for the Cards and Bucky Walters for the Reds are the pitchers.

The two teams carried yesterday's game close to supper time before the Reds took an 8-3 victory and the sticky balls were sent to a dehydrator.

Gee Walker was the main point in the Cincinnati attack, driving in three runs with a pair of singles, and the Reds collected 12 hits in all off three St. Louis pitchers, headed by Morton Cooper.

Although his mates gave him a 3-2 lead, Cooper was chased in the fourth inning. He walked Ray Mueller and sent him to second on a balk. Estel Crabtree, batting for Ray Starr, scored Mueller with a single. Walker knocked in Crabtree, and Max Marshall, who had walked, came in on Frank McCormick's blooper hit.

The Cards wore out Starr with Stan Musial's triple, Danny Litwhiler's double, and Walker Cooper's single for two runs in the first, and a third run in the fourth on a walk, a sacrifice, and a single.

The Reds sewed the game up in the fifth when Gee Walker batted in two more runs, and they scored again in the eighth on Steve Mesner's double and three walks.

Divine service is being held in this jungle chapel, near Gona, New Guinea, by Chaplain Marcus W. Johnson of Norfolk, Neb., for an American infantry section stationed in that area.

GRANNY SETS PACE AT PLANT

CINCINNATI —(INS)— Although a great-grandmother, Mrs. Belle Norris, 85-year-old shoe plant war worker at the U. S. Shoe corporation plant, maintains a youthful disposition on her job pasting stays on shoes being made for the WAACS.

Mrs. Norris has been employed at the plant for 17 years and now averages 1,000 pairs of stays each working day.

Bad weather doesn't bother her and in 17 years she has missed only two working days. In honor of her 85th birthday last March, colleagues on the shoe production line gave a birthday party in her honor. A widow for 27 years, she has one son, Frank Norris, of Louisville, Ky., one grandchild and three great-grandchildren.

CITIZEN AT 80

OAKLAND, Cal. —(U.P.)— Miss Laura Rhode, aged 80, born in Norway, was proud of being a Norwegian until the Germans walked in and took it over. Then she decided it would be better to become an American. So, after a residence of 54 years in the United States she was granted her naturalization papers.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

A certain faraway section of the world, North Africa, has become the focus of interest for young and old alike. Youngsters who have brothers, uncles, and fathers fighting in that area will be interested in the two new books about this country in the children's section of the Mansfield public library.

MISCHIEF IN FEZ, by Eleanor Hoffman, tells of Mousa's new step-mother, a very beautiful lady with a pet gazelle. A series of calamaties began to happen in the household, however, as soon as they arrived. The djinns, "those who are evil," must have been responsible. Mousa's pet desert fox helped to ward off the evil ones and stopped the mischief. This is an "almost real" fairy tale for the middle-sized boys and girls

Each of the children in CHILDREN OF NORTH AFRICA, by Louise Stinetorf, lives in one of the North African countries Maps in the front and at the beginning of each story show where they live. The adventures of each child are different and interesting.

MORE BOOKS TAKEN OUT

EUGENE, Ore.—(U.P.)—Despite a decrease in enrollment, the number of library reserve books checked out overnight at the University of Oregon is higher now than at any time in the past Librarian Willis C. Warren announced Wartime curtailments of evening social activities is the cause, Warren said.

Today... MORE NEED FOR HEALTH PROTECTION... MORE NEED FOR CLOROX!

ALL OVER AMERICA, workers are helping to speed up production for Victory. Their health—everyone's health—is more vitally important today than ever. To help safeguard your family against hidden germ dangers use Clorox in routine cleansing of china, glass, tile, enamel, porcelain, linoleum, wood surfaces; and in laundering white and color-fast cottons and linens. Clorox not only disinfects, it deodorizes, removes stains, too. Simply follow directions on the label. Clorox is concentrated for economy. There's only one Clorox . . . always order by name.

AXIS, ALLIED AGENTS THRONG SPANISH TOWN

Keep Watch on Gibraltar and Each Other In War City, La Linea.

(By United Press)

MADRID — On a lazy summer afternoon the agents of warring nations can be seen sipping drinks at the Bar Nacional, the Bar Delmonte, or on the terraces and balconies of the hotels Iberia and Sevilla in 72-year-old La Linea—Spain's youngest but most unusual wartime town.

They always seem to have one eye on the Bay of Gibraltar. When they see anything of interest in the bay, some walk briskly to the telephone booths, some head for the telegraph offices, some jot down notes, and some call for another drink.

La Linea is little more than 1,000 yards from the British fortress of Gibraltar. It once was just an adjunct to nearby San Roque. The war-time boom has increased its population to 52,000, including some 4,000 Portuguese and the "rock lizards" or natives of Gibraltar.

The town enjoys a climate similar to that of southern California and its beauty is enhanced by the blue Mediterranean.

Because of its location a keen observer in La Linea easily can detect movements of all merchant vessels and warships and planes arriving at and departing from Gibraltar. The Axis nations have been quick to utilize this advantage by sending agents who report the movements to Berlin.

Each of the major warring powers—the United States, Great Britain, Germany and Italy—have as many as 20 agents at La Linea most of the time. Besides keeping watch on Gibraltar, they can talk to workers returning from the fortress. And they can watch each other.

Thousands of La Linea's workers commute daily to Gibraltar, Algeciras or Tarifa.

The town has a city hall, military barracks, frontier guards' house, customs house, courthouse, postoffice, many two and three story buildings and a few new four story structures. It is an attractive town.

Its women are pretty, with large black eyes, dark Spanish complexions and graceful movements.

NO RAISE TO MOVIE RIDERS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — (UP) — Movie cowboy extras here claim to have been the first victims of President Roosevelt's order prohibiting further raises in wages. Within 12 hours after its issuance, the 10th Regional War Labor board refused the demand of the cowboys to raise the pay of the riders from $11 to $16.50 a day. The demand had been made on the grounds of removing inequities.

Controlling Soil Moisture In Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Ass'n.

Cultivation of the garden to many Victory gardeners merely means destroying the weed growth, but cultivation actually has another very important function, namely, that of establishing a dust mulch on the soil surface. This dust mulch is of great importance in conserving moisture in the soil.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, the dust mulch does not completely stop evaporation, it retards it to such a degree that the roots of plants are able to utilize more moisture than they would otherwise.

The mulching of plants is another method of holding moisture in the soil, especially during warm weather. Almost anything in the form of vegetation or manure will serve as mulching material.

The most effective way to apply mulch is to scratch up the soil so that it is loose around each plant and thus forms a dust mulch. Then place the vegetable mulching material around each plant, as illustrated, or along the row. Many gardeners make a saucer-shaped depression around each plant into which they place the mulching material.

Use enough mulch to make a good collar around each plant. If the mulch shrinks or decays away, or if the increased size of the growing plant indicates the need of a larger collar, add more mulching material.

ADOPTS KITTEN

CAMP BOWIE, Tex.—(INS)—The mascot of the 215th military police at Camp Bowie is disproving an old axiom for the boys. In fact "Lady," has adopted a kitten and is raising it along with her own litter of puppies to prove that cats and dogs can mix.

When her young puppies were only a few days old Lady disappeared for a time and the men wondered if she had deserted. But she soon returned with a small kitten in her mouth and according to the soldiers, she isn't showing any favoritism between it and her own young.

OHIOAN CALLED HERO OF AIR SUPPLY ROAD TO GUADALCANAL

(Editor's Note. The following story was written by Technical Sergeant Jim Lucas, U. S. Marine Corps, of Tulsa, Okla., and distributed by the Associated Press.)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, June 1 — (AP) — (Delayed)—Corporal Robert L. Beeney, U. S. M. C., 19, of Granville, Ohio, has been complimented by his commanding officer at this South Pacific base for his part in keeping open an aerial "Burma Road" to Henderson field during the Solomon islands campaign.

Repeatedly, Corporal Beeney rode into Guadalcanal as a radioman on navy cargo transport planes loaded with gasoline, high explosives and bombs, helped to unload it on Henderson's runways under fire, and took off into hostile skies on the return trip with wounded Marines bound for base hospitals out of the fighting zone.

The saga of Corporal Beeney's squadron has been officially described by Admiral Halsey as "an example of courage and skill."

Corporal Beeney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Beeney, Granville. He enlisted June 28, 1941, at Cincinnati.

Colonel P. K. Smith, commander of a marine aircraft group in the South Pacific said that "during the period of Sept. 7 to Nov. 1, 1942, Corporal Beeney made seven trips as flight radioman of navy cargo transport aircraft in the Solomon islands area.

"His zeal, exceptional courage and devotion to duty during these flights, under extremely hazardous conditions, enabled this group to supply combatant forces and evacuate wounded from the combat area."

Senate Votes Today on Subsidy Plan

HOUSE WILL WEIGH OWN BILL FRIDAY

Senators on Committee Favor Continuing Program Now Started; Fight Grows.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Reed (R-Kan) charged the administration today with "complete misrepresentation of fact" and said its plans to subsidize lower prices for food "would free purchasing power of consumers and increase inflatointry pressure," at the opening of the second day of senate debate on subsidies.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The senate decides today whether to approve subsidies to control prices.

The vote is scheduled for late today on a bill to extend for two years beyond June 30 the life of the commodity credit corporation through which the office of price administration expects to finance a program to roll back butter, meat and coffee prices to Sept. 15, 1942 levels.

Answering congressional opposition to such a program, the senate finance committee has recommended an amendment to the CCC bill, authorizing up to $675,000,000 for the program already inaugurated, but forbidding expansions beyond that figure.

A group of farm state senators rejected that proposal in the grounds that "it would legalize a subsidy program the president started without any legal authority."

"If he can do it in one instance and get congressional authority later, he can go on indefinately," protested Sen. George D. Aiken, R., Vt. Aiken and Sen. Guy M. Gillette, D., Ia., joined in sponsoring a substitute to forbid any government agency from paying any subsidies to hold down or roll back prices.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D., Wyo., approached the argument from another angle. He endorsed subsidy payments to hold down prices (and wages) in the fight against inflation but insisted that the payments should go direct to producers instead of to processors as contemplated under the OPA program.

Even when the senate votes this afternoon, however, the fight over rollback subsidies is far from ended.

The house is scheduled today or tomorrow to take up its CCC extension bill to which has been attached an amendment to outlaw the present OPA program or any other price-fixing subsidies on agricultural commodities.

In addition, the OPA appropriation bill now pending in the senate appropriation committee would forbid use of any of its funds to pay the salary of any official or employe who participates in a price-fixing subsidy program.

DRAMATIZATIONS TO HIGHLIGHT PROGRAM ENDING BIBLE SCHOOL

Dramatizations, Bible memory and displays of handicraft will highlight the programs of the Vacation Bible school Friday. The 10-day study in the six schools will end on that day.

Two of the closing programs will be presented Friday morning. Children of the Mayflower Congregational church will give their program at 9 a. m., and the children of First United Brethren church will present their program at 10:30 a. m. A special feature of these presentations will be a synagogue service in dramatic form.

Children of Park Avenue Baptist church will display a replica of a village in Palestine along with other handicraft at their program at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Children of the primary group will give a play, "If We Had Lived Then." The juniors will present two short sketches, "Paul at Philippi," and "Paul at Thesselonica."

Today was hobby day for the children of St. John's Evangelical school, with 25 children placing their hobbies on display. The hobbies will remain at the church to form a part of the exhibit at the closing program at 8 p. m. "The Four Leaf Clover" will be the theme of this program. The beginner department will present action songs and a rhythm band, the primary department will be seen in a shadow play, and the juniors will present a play about Samuel.

Programs of the Union Gospel center and Salvation Army will be presented Sunday at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m., respectively.

Certificates will be awarded to the children with special gold seals going to those with perfect attendance marks.

Parents Will Be Guests of Y.W.C.A. Day Camp Members

Parents and friends of Y. W. C. A. day campers will be guests at the annual day camp field day Friday at Middle park.

Climaxing three weeks of day camp; a program of badminton, archery, outdoor cooking, and child care demonstrations will be presented by the campers. There will also be a craft display.

A picnic lunch at noon will be followed by group singing and a dramatic production. Swimming at North Lake park pool will complete the day's activities.

Mrs. Jessie Crane, camp director, will be in charge of the field day program.

CLUB PLANNING DISCUSSIONS

Meeting last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Lions club members discussed plans for a discussion conference on post-war activities to be held Wednesday at 7 p. m. at Dr. Paul Maxwell's cottage.

Plans were also discussed for representation of the local club at the international conference in Cleveland July 21, 22 and 23.

It was announced that newly elected officers will be installed at the next meeting July 14, at which time Past President Alvin Fankhauser will act as installing officer.

The club will visit the Fredericktown Lions club meeting Monday at 6:45 p. m. All local members are requested to meet at Kafer's Flowers, 41 North Mulberry street, at 6 p. m.

COUNTY BUDGET LOWER THAN '43 APPROPRIATION

$501,911 Requested For '44 Operations; Figure $10,682 Less, Auditor Says.

Richland county commissioners today presented a request to the budget commission for $501,911 for general operation for 1944. The amount was $10,672 less than was appropriated for the 1943 government operations.

Practically all departments of the county government requested amounts corresponding to those of last year, according to Auditor Norman L. Wolf. Slight increases were requested for maintenance of the County Home, the Children's Home and the T. B. Sanitorium, to cover the increasing cost of food, he added.

National and state election will boost the total required by the election board from $17,225 to $20,000.

Testing cattle for T. B. required $6,000 in 1943, but since this service will not be required in 1944 a reduction of $6,000 in the agricultural division of the budget was made. There was no appropriation from the general fund for relief purposes as balances now exist. State funds are expected to care for the few unemployed which now make up the relief list.

Road bonds are derived entirely from the state auto license and gasoline tax revenues and will undoubtedly be less in 1944 than in 1943 when total receipts and balances are expected to amount to $269,800.

County revenue for 1944, other than road funds, are expected to total approximately $511,000 which will probably permit the budget commission, when it meets in August, to act favorably on the county budget request for 1944.

Urges Caution In Filling Out New Gas Ration Forms

Increase of incompletely filled out applications for renewal of A gas ration books caused Chairman Charles C. Beelman of the county war price and ration board to warn that motorists who file incorrect applications might find their new books held up.

At the rate of 1 out of every 20 applications having to be returned Beelman said there was a possibility that his short staff could not get these books out on time. At present, incorrect applications are being returned as fast as possible so that applicants may receive their books on time.

Most common mistake is filling out of the entire form rather than the particular parts required. Beelman said the upper right hand corner is to be filled out, the block in the center for tire registration and the lower left hand corner. The blanks then must be signed in the upper right hand corner by the applicant.

Mailing applications now through June 26 are persons whose last names fall in the A through E classification; Those F through L apply June 27 through July 1; M through R July 2 through July 7; and S through Z July 8 through July 12.

ILLNESS FATAL

Albert B. Wheeler Taken By Death at Home Today.

Albert B. Wheeler, 65, died Wednesday at his home, 52 Greenwood avenue after a lingering illness.

Born Dec. 25, 1877 in Huron county, he came to Mansfield 36 years ago and for many years was employed with the Ohio Public Service company.

He was a member of First Christian church, Mansfield lodge No. 19, I. O. O. F., and the Modern Woodmen of America.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held Saturday at 3:30 p. m. in charge of Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor of the First Christian church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

DRIVER HELD IN CAR THEFT

Arrested early this morning on a charge of operating an automobile without the owner's consent, David M. Hunter, Cleveland, was being held in Richland county jail today for Cuyahoga county authorities.

The car, reported missing from Cleveland Sunday, was spotted on U. S. Route 42. According to officers Hunter failed to obey their order to stop. He was arrested in Mansfield after a 90-mile-an-hour chase.

Hunter, officers said, served 15 months in Ohio State Reformatory on another car theft charge three years ago.

RITES SATURDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Angela Simmons, 80, who died Wednesday in Cuyahoga Falls, will be held Saturday at the Wappner funeral home at 1:30 p. m. in charge of Rev. H. S. Garnes, pastor of the St. Luke's Lutheran church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Galion Pastor New Kiwanis International Vice President

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT

GALION — Active in organization affairs for the past 18 years, Rev. Philip E. Auer, pastor of Peace Lutheran church here, was named vice president of Kiwanis International for the United States today.

In the capacity of vice president, Rev. Auer will govern activities of all Kiwanis clubs within the borders of the United States.

He was elected by officers and trustees meeting in Chicago, who named Donald B. Rice of Oakland, Cal., president of Kiwanis International.

Member of several international committees during the past few years, Rev. Auer is at present serving a two-year term as international trustee.

Rev. Auer became a Kiwanian in 1925, two years later becoming president of the Galion club. In 1930 he served as lieutenant governor of the district and in 1938 served as Ohio district governor.

A native of Marysville, the new vice president came to Galion from Sharon, Pa., where he served a Lutheran parish following his ordination. He has been pastor of Peace Lutheran parish here for 19 years.

Rev. Auer graduated from the college and theological seminary at Capital university in Columbus in 1921. He is married and has a son in the armed service and a daughter at home.

Seabee Recruiter Cites Need for Construction Men

"The navy needs construction men and needs them badly," Lieut. W. H. Fleming, Seabee recruiting officer, said today on his arrival in Mansfield to interview applicants for the navy construction battalion.

According to the recruiting officer, a man who joins the construction battalion is serving his country in the capacity for which he is best fitted. He can benefit himself while serving his country for he is following his trade.

Lieut. Fleming explained that Seabees are used entirely for overseas duty and so many men are needed for this work that no quota has been set for applicants. He said that the physical requirements are the same for the Seabees as for enlisted personnel in general service with the exception that the Seabees will take men who are color blind.

Lieut. Fleming will be in Mansfield at the Navy recruiting station until 8:30 this evening. He will return every third Thursday to interview applicants.

SKIMS THROUGH

Curtin Government Upheld By One-Vote Margin.

CANBERRA, Australia —(UNS)— A resolution of non-confidence in the labor party regime of Prime Minister John Curtin was defeated today, 27 to 26, after a two-day debate.

Although the vote averted the necessity for a mandatory new election, heated debate over the issue of the conduct of the war created such a wide rift between the labor party and oppositionists that it was regarded likely the Prime Minister would soon dissolve parliament to pave the way for an election anyhow.

CLAIM PRIZES

Mansfield Gardeners Receive Produce Awards.

Three Mansfield gardeners, two of them school men, today claimed first prizes for green beans, potatoes and cabbage in the Richland County Victory Garden committee's vegetable contest.

Prize for the first head of early cabbage went to Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller, a veteran gardener, who produced the cabbage at his home at 568 Yale drive. The plants, of the Early Wakefield variety, were set in the garden April 27.

G. P. Van Arnam, 139 Helen avenue, Senior high school instructor, claimed the award for the best Irish Cobbler potatoes. They were planted April 29.

Prize for the first green beans of edible size went to Philip Wolfe, 251 Marion avenue, clerk of the county election board. He planted the beans April 20.

Prize winning vegetables, for which the growers received $1 each in war stamps, are on display in the Martin Hardware store window.

LOAN COST REDUCED

ON ALL LOANS ABOVE $150

— EFFECTIVE AT ONCE —

This new loan rate offers worthwhile savings to those whose budgets have been upset by the June income tax installment. Now is the deal time to clear up all those scattered bills that have troubled you. With only one place to pay, you can organize your way out of debt on an orderly repayment schedule adjusted to fit your purse. Of course, we make small loans too. For instance, $20 for 30 days costs only 60c. But if you need as much as $200, $300, or even $450 or more, remember Interstate's new rate offers you a real reduction on your loan cost. "While you wait" service to those who phone ahead or present proper identification and evidence of employment.

RAISES 'CAT'

MYRTLE POINT, Ore.—(CP)—A year ago Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Endicott were given a kitten, Stubby, which they decided to raise as a pet.

Today Stubby weighs 22 pounds, being a wild cat. However, Stubby takes to domesticity as avidly as any tabby, riding around the house perched on the shoulders of its owners and opening doors with a technique all its own. The only streak of wildness is a penchant for tearing up its bedding every time "the linen" is changed.

ELECT JUDGE

Defense Chairmen Organize, Hear Activity Reports.

Chairmen of 18 Mansfield civilian defense war service agencies, comprising the war service council, yesterday elected Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler chairman and Miss Lois MacKellar, city librarian, secretary of the council.

The group decided to meet monthly at OCD headquarters in the city building to hear reports of war service committees and co-ordinate their work.

Giving reports at yesterday's meeting were Miss MacKellar, who told of the work of the war information center at the library and the victory book campaign; Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller, education and child care committee, who reported on the board of education's plans for nursery schools here; Mrs. W. B. Ford, nutrition and home canning chairman; Mrs. Gayle Owings, salvage chairman, who said the collection of waste fats had climbed more than 1,000 pounds in the past month; Mrs. Hobart Lime, consumers' committee head, and John Fike of the Y. M. C. A., reporting on the progress of the summer recreation program for children at playgrounds.

The percentage of brown hair is 75 among Spaniards, 39 among Franch, and 16 in Scandinavia.

THEATERS

Continues at Ohio.

"Presenting Lily Mars," starring Judy Garland and Van Heflin, continues today at the Ohio. Judy is cast in the role of a 19-year-old girl who has a great desire to become an actress. She visits Heflin, a famous producer, in an attempt to persuade him to give her a "spot." Heflin, however, tells her she isn't exactly the type. Judy isn't discouraged, and she sets out to show Heflin he is wrong. Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra and Bob Crosby and his orchestra furnish the music along with Miss Garland.

Rogers Film.

Roy Rogers, called the "King of the Cowboys," comes to the screen of the Park theater today in "Idaho," story of that state and the hit parade song which has brought it "to the front" lately. Rogers' is supported by Smiley "Frog" Brunette, Gene Autry's famous sidekick. Rogers, it is said, furnishes the thrills with his six shooters, while Burnette supplies the laugh with his deep "Brooklyn" voice. "Army Surgeon" is the other Park picture.

Robinson at Ritz.

Edward G. Robinson, the screen's "tough guy," is currently appearing in "Thunder in the City," an English picture, now at the Ritz. The story, written by Robert Sherwood, Pulitzer Prize playwright, and Aben Kandel, author of "City for Conquest," depicts the manner in which an American super-ballyhoo artist takes Mother England for a streamlined buggy-ride, with time out for romance. Luli Deste is seen as Robinson's new leading lady. Other Ritz attraction is "Lady Bodyguard."

MANY MINERS REFUSE TO GO BACK TO PITS

Angered Over FDR Call For Draft Age Increase and WLB Wage Denial.

of the union's district five, which covers western Pennsylvania, said: "The president's statement hasn't done the situation any good and has made the men that much sorer. Some were very bitter when they talked to me.

But he thought that more men would report for work tomorrow and that almost all might be back by Monday.

The revolt of the rank and file against Lewis' order was greatest in the central Pennsylvania region where only 2,847 men of 45,000 were back at work.

Twenty-three central Pennsylvania locals voted last night to remain on strike. Workers of seven locals which had voted to return, reported for work this morning, then changed their minds and went home. At one of the mines, pickets from a neighboring mine whose local had decided not to work, turned the men back.

The situation at the "captive" mines of the big steel producers, which provide the fuel for the blast furnaces and coke producers upon which steel depends, best illustrated the increased threat to the steel plants. The H. C. Frick Coke Co., U. S. Steel subsidiary which turns its coal over to Carnegie-Illinois, reported that only eight of its 14 Pennsylvania mines were operating and those with approximately one-third of their normal crews. Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, reporting that all four of its mines remained closed, said it would be forced to curtail steel production if the strike continued long. Republic Steel had only two of six mines functioning at all.

The Pennsylvania situation was typical of those in the other coal mining areas with the exception of West Virginia and Illinois.

In Ohio, miners began to return to the pits in increasing numbers as union officials scheduled meetings for today with dissatisfied miners. UMW officials said that though there was much "dissatisfaction" the "full weight" of the union would be placed behind the back-to-work order.

In West Virginia, almost full crews were back at work in 600 mines.

In Illinois, 25,000 of 38,000 miners were back at work.

In Alabama, only one small mine was in operation and that was a commercial one not producing for the big Birmingham steel mills, but UMW officials predicted that the miners would begin returning to work today and tomorrow.

In the Pennsylvania anthracite fields, approximately one-fourth of the 80,000 miners reported for work and most of the big mines were idle. Union officials predicted that more would be back this afternoon and tomorrow.

Congress Cool To FDR's 'Draft Club'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt's proposal to meet any new coal strike with a draft club was viewed in most congressional quarters today as an inadequate substitute for the anti-strike bill, which many lawmakers now expect him to veto.

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed yesterday steps already had been taken to set up machinery for inducting all draft-age miners into the armed forces, and he said moreover he will ask congress to raise from 45 to 65 the maximum age for induction into non-combat military service. This would take in many of the older miners.

Some quarters interpreted this to mean strikers would be put into uniform and under army discipline returned to their coal digging jobs at a private's pay of $50 a month. Chairman William H. Davis of the war labor board has estimated their present pay scale for a six day week at $49.60, or about four times as much as army pay.

Immediate reaction in both house and senate was cool. The Appalachian operators however viewed the president's stand favorably but asked nevertheless that their mines, operated by the government since May 1 be returned to the owners. They said they had obeyed the government's wishes while John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers had been defiant in his demands for $2 a day wage increases.

See Lewis In Uniform, Maybe

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, conceivably might be put into army uniform under President Roosevelt's proposal to raise the draft age limit to 65 for noncombatant service as a strike-breaking device. Lewis is 63.

The effect of such an amendment on him, however, would depend on whether it was drawn to include union officers as well as workmen.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

SHUTTLE RAID BLASTS NAVAL BASE AT SPEZIA

RAF Develops Technique of Bombing Axis 'Going and Coming.'

winging toward northern France and Belgium.

Official air sources declined to speculate on whether the successful trial trips across Europe could be accepted as a pattern for the future.

Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's attack on Tokyo was a partial application of the principle in that the U. S. bombers took off from a carrier and landed in China.

The RAF feat aroused speculation as to whether the U. S. air forces might stage similar raids. The range of the Flying Fortresses and Liberators would make such runs possible at least across France to north Italy.

Officially described only as "several squadrons"—which means at least several dozen planes—the Lancaster force was strong enough to ravage three acres of the important radio location equipment plant in the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen and also to severely damage the Maybach Werke motor plant on the way out.

On the return trip the docks at La Spezia were bombed accurately, the communique said, and stores of oil set afire.

The La Spezia attack represented the first RAF assault on northern Italy since April 18, when a big fleet of bombers hit the naval base there.

During the night, German raiders made their heaviest attack in weeks against an English objective.

It was announced that 15 enemy planes pounded the port city of Hull in an attack lasting more than an hour, destroying a museum and valuable exhibits, parts of the shopping center, and residential property.

Thousands of incendiaries set fires which were not brought under control until after dawn.

The casualty toll still was climbing early today with rescue squads digging out bodies of those buried in the wreckage of their homes.

The Berlin radio said that Allied planes also were over Germany during the night, asserting that a few "made nuisance raids" in the western sector.

Another German broadcast of a DNB dispatch asserted a formation of British planes attacked a German convoy off Flushing, Holland, from a low level this morning. The report was not immediately confirmed by the British.

15,000 Tons of Bombs Hit Germany

LONDON—(AP)—A deadly cargo of more than 15,000 tons of bombs has been unloaded on Germany in the past month by giant British bombers, two-thirds of which have fallen on industrial centers in the Ruhr valley where the Nazis themselves admit "incredible" devastation.

British figures show 10,000 tons of explosives rained ruin in the period from May 22 to June 22 on seven arms centers in that area—Dortmund, Essen, Wuppertal, Bochum, Oberhausen, Krefeld and Mulheim.

Joining the RAF in this German-described "battle of the Ruhr," American four-engined bombers struck the synthetic rubber plant at Huls June 22 in their first venture into the highly industrialized valley, of which Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels once said: "The destiny of the Ruhr is the destiny of Germany itself."

The valley already has become the most bomb-battered area in the world and the British say there is more still to come.

The Ruhr has 54 per cent of the hard coal of Axis Europe, 37 per cent of the pig iron, 34 per cent of steel ingots and castings.

Only three Ruhr towns of any consequence — Gelsenkirchen, Hamborn and Herne — have not felt a blow by a major RAF force, one big enough in the air ministry's own words to wipe out a city of 200,000 population in one night.

Industrial production in the Ruhr was said on June 9 to have fallen about 35 per cent under 1942.

The Nazis are making no attempt to conceal the devastation. The Berlin radio admitted the destruction was "incredible."

U. S. War Casualties Total 63,958

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Total army casualties for the entire war to date number 63,958, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson announced today.

Total navy, marine corps and coast guard casualties announced to date are 23,346, making the grand total 87,304.

The army casualties comprise 7,528 killed in action or died of wounds, 17,128 wounded, 22,687 missing and 16,615 prisoners of war.

The Philippine campaign was the most expensive to date in casualties, owing to the large number captured and missing after the fall of Bataan and Corregidor.

Total casualties in the Philippine campaign were 31,610, including Philippine scouts. There were 1,273 killed, 1,746 wounded, 17,939 missing, and 10,652 prisoners.

The North African campaign cost 18,736 casualties—2,574 killed, 9,734 wounded, 1,620 missing and 5,107 captured.

RAF Continues To Hit Sardinia, Sicily

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA —(AP)— British heavy bombers from the middle east command swept across the Mediterranean to attack the enemy airdrome of Comiso in Sicily on Tuesday night while twin-engined Wellingtons from northwest Africaan bases blasted Olbia in northern Sardinia.

Communiques today said the heavy bombings caused two violent explosions and set two large and a number of smaller fires at the Comiso airfield and that the Wellingtons left several fires burning on the Olbia docks.

The bulk of the American air forces remained idle yesterday.

Italians Hide In Old Roman Ruins

(By Associated Press)

Thousands of Italians seek shelter from Allied air raids by flocking each night to subterranean passages of the Roman amphitheater at Catania, Sicily, the Berlin radio said today in a broadcast.

This amphitheater, 410 by 348 feet, was the third largest of ancient Rome, being exceeded in size only by that at Verona and the colosseum of Rome.

Catania, founded in 729 B. C. by Greek colonists, is located on the eastern shore of Sicily at the foot of towering Mt. Etna and on several occasions in its long history has been virtually obliterated by lava flows.

Report Battleship Leaves Gibraltar

MADRID, June 23—(Delayed) —(AP)—Dispatches from La Linea today reported the new British battleship Howard and four destroyers had left Gibraltar for the Mediterranean.

Some 70 merchantmen now are in Gibraltar, along with a number of warships including the battleship George V, the dispatch said.

(The dispatches used the name of Howard but it is possible the Howe was meant, there being no British battleship Howard.)

Russians Attack Near Belgorod

MOSCOW — (AP) — An assertion in the Soviet midnight communique that Russian units had struck at German defense lines west of Belgorod stirred the speculation of Moscow military observers today, since the town, on the lower-central part of the front, long has been in German hands.

Belgorod is 40 miles northeast of Kharkov, which also is held by the Germans.

FREE BEER FOR WORKERS URGED

WMC Official Thinks Pretzels Would Help, Too.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Free beer and pretzels for foundry workers as a means of reducing absenteeism and turnover in the industry was advocated today by Dr. William P. Edmunds, Cleveland area director of the war manpower commission.

Explaining he spoke as a physician Dr. Edmunds declared every foundry and smelting works should provide employes with a mug of beer and pretzels at mid-morning and mid-afternoon to relieve fatigue, offset perspiration and raise morale.

The WMC director said he believed the serving of the malt beverage was one of the things that foundry management could do to make work in its plants more attractive in view of the difficulty of obtaining a rise in wage levels.

and Mrs. Hoffman have advanced the work of the Salvation Army. They instituted the Army band now comprised of 12 members.

"Before leaving we would like to thank the people of Mansfield for their cooperation without which we should never have been able to accomplish the things we have," the Salvation Army leaders said.

Both Adj. and Mrs. Hoffman are graduates of Salvation Army college in New York City and Mrs. Hoffman also holds the rank of adjutant. They have two sons, James 13, and Paul, 11.

Farewell services will be conducted Sunday at 7:45 p. m. at the citadel.

Probe Continues In Express Car Blast at Ashland

McMurray, 42, one of two men killed in the blast were to be held at 3 p. m. today at Gilbert funeral home.

McMurray, a member of Trinity Lutheran church, leaves his widow, two daughters, Marilyn and Caroline, at home; a son, Harold of Columbus; five brothers, Clyde of Columbia City, Ind., Guy of Ashland, George stationed overseas with the army, Harold, in camp in Texas and Robert, whose present address is unknown.

The body of James Vellie, 32, express messenger, other explosion victim, was shipped to his home in Salamanca, N. Y. Wednesday afternoon from a local mortuary.

Vellie's father, Merle Vellie, also an express company worker, was working on an eastbound train which arrived in Ashland an hour after the explosion. He was informed here of his son's death and was relieved of his duties in the express car but continued on east to Salamanca to give the news to his wife and his son's family, after making arrangements for shipment of the body to Salamanca.

The Ashland explosion recalled a similar blast almost 40 years ago in Crestline, when a Pennsylvania freight car loaded with dynamite blew up on Nov. 1, 1903.

Though none was killed in the Crestline blast, the explosion was heard in Mansfield and broke windows in Galion.

The explosion left a huge hole in the ground and blew the car to bits. Galion residents heard the sound so clearly that they thought for a time it had occurred within a few blocks.

Ohio Housewives Contribute More Waste Fats, But Not Enough.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio housewives' contribution of waste fats for war use reached a new high during May but was still more than 50 per cent short of the state's quota, Robert O. Weible, executive state secretary for the war production board's general salvage branch, announced today.

Weible said the May contributions totaled 528,000 pounds, 15,000 above the previous high set in March and more than 30,000 pounds above the April figure.

7 OF 8 BEING HELD PRISONER

Sgt. Allen and Pfc. Miller Join Other Mansfielders In Jap Prison Camps

C. A. Robinette, and George Zimmerman, brother of Fred and Lena Zimmerman, and Mrs. Lena Harrick, all of Mansfield.

Two other Mansfielders who were with the "outer guard" on the peninsula and who are held prisoners are Nelson B. Hale, jr., son of Mrs. Leah Black, a member of an infantry unit, and Sgt. Leslie D. Sawyer, son of Mrs. Carrie Sawyer, 236 Rae avenue, a member of the marine corps.

Telegrams to the parents of Allen and Miller from the war department said that information concerning the two men had been received from the International Red Cross.

The wire to Allen said his son was held in a prison at Mukden, Manchukuo, in occupied China. It was not learned where Miller was interned although it was asumed that he was held in the same camp.

Both Allen and Miller enlisted in January, 1941. They received their basic training at Fort Knox, Ky. They were sent out of the country with the first tank battalion to go overseas, and which became the first U. S. tank unit to engage in battle in World War II.

The unit left the United States early in October, 1941, and landed in the Philippines on Thanksgiving day, about two weeks before the Japs carried out their treacherous attack on Pearl Harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen last heard from their son early last year when they received a letter dated Feb. 11 which apparently was brought out by plane.

Miller's parents received the last word from their son, a card, postmarked by the navy on March 31, 1942. The card was dated March 15 and it is believed that it may have been brought out by one of the submarines which sneaked into Corregidor to remove high ranking army personnel.

OPA Continues Its Policy on Coupons For Processed Food.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Blue food ration stamps N, P, and Q, from book number 2, will be valid from July 1 to August 7, inclusive, the OPA announced yesterday. These stamps are intended for purchases of processed food.

Blue stamps for June, K, L, and M, will remain valid during the first seven days of July and a similar seven-day carry-over period will prevail for the July stamps through Aug. 7.

In announcing a policy of continuing the seven-day overlap period for subsequent months, OPA said the carry-over made shopping more convenient, especially for persons living in remote sections.

JUST GIVE THEM CAUSE TO FIGHT

Story of Guadalcanal Hero Proves Italians Have Plenty of Courage.

in Iceland. Two other brothers are married. They work in war plants. The last one is 13.

"Now to get back to Johnny. What's he done? Well, one day back last October, when the Japs were pushing us around a bit on Guadalcanal, Johnny had a machine gun. Three days and nights he stuck to that gun—no food, no sleep, no rest.. Time and again the Japs tried to rush his position. And he let them have it every time. Finally, Johnny had to move out of there—33 dead Japs made too high a pile for his machine gun to fire over. That's our Johnny, whose father was born in Italy.

"And listen to this: It's from the president's citation:

"'In a fierce frontal attack with the Japanese blasting his guns with grenades and mortar fire, one of Sgt. Basilone's sections, with its gun crews, was put out of action, leaving only two men able to carry on.

"'Moving an extra gun into position, he placed it in action. Then, under continual fi.., repaired another and personally manned it, gallantly holding his line until replacements arrived.

"'A little later, with ammunition critically low and the supply lines cut off, Sgt. Basilone, at great risk of his life and in the face of continued enemy attack, battled his way through hostile line with urgently needed shells for his gunners, thereby contributing in a large measure to the virtual annihilation of a Japanese regiment.'"

The commander looked up from his paper work for a moment, smiled, squared his shoulders and bent to his task again. His name was Mancuso.

JAPS ON ATTU DID WITHOUT A TYPEWRITER

Reporter Finds They Had No Filing Cabinets, Office Accommodations Crude.

By RUSSELL ANNABEL
(UP Staff Correspondent)

HEADQUARTERS, ALASKA DEFENSE COMMAND, June 6—(Delayed)—(U.P.)—Army and navy clerks, accustomed to avalanches of paper work, may be interested to know that on Attu the Japs had no typewriters, no mimeograph machines and no filing cabinets.

In wandering through the captured Jap garrisons at Holtz bay and Chichagof harbor I did not find anything that could be called an office. There were a vast lot of papers strewn in wild abandon throughout the grenaded officers' quarters, but a good share of them were picture postcards from Japan and cartoon magazines devoted almost exclusively to building up Japanese hatred of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

Nowhere in the garrisons was there a desk. There were a few crude plank tables, small and rickety, and these were littered with teacups, photographs of graduating cadets trying to look erect and stern in their new uniforms, packages of Jap cigarets, and messkits containing mixtures of rice, seaweed and pickled radishes.

In a hollowed-out knoll above the unfinished airport in the east arm of Holtz bay I found what the Jap quartermaster probably had used as his office. It would have interested an American military clerk, accustomed to the complicated efficiency of a modern office.

There was a door four feet high and two feet wide, opening into a dark cavern with a dirt floor and walls of water-stained grass matting. For light there was a candle in a brass lantern. The desk consisted of two planks nailed to uprights driven into the floor. There was a shelf under it stacked haphazardly with papers. Apparently that was the filing case.

Considering that the Japs had been here nearly a year and that they apparently had been able to bring in what equipment they wished, it was a primitive layout. I have seen more efficient-looking offices in Indian fish camps.

HERE'S ANOTHER ONE FOR RIPLEY

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA — (INS) — Coincidence hasn't stretched its long arm further than this lately.

This true tall story concerns sergeant Jack C. Percy, of Los Angeles, former prop man with 20th Century-Fox, Corporal Robert Kennedy, jr., of Newark, New Jersey, and a battered water canteen.

Percy is attached to an air corps motion picture unit. Kennedy lives in the tent next to his. Finding his canteen empty one night recently, Percy went to the next tent for a drink.

Kennedy handed him a canteen. Percy stared in amazement at some letters etched into it—J. P., U.S.A., A.E.F., France.

Percy recognized the canteen as the one he had carried through five major engagements in World war one. It had been issued to Kennedy when he entered the service.

No Shortage In U. S. of Walnut For Gun Stocks

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind. —(U.P.)—The supply of walnut in the United States, which is used exclusively in the manufacture of gunstocks, is sufficient to supply all the war needs of this country and its allies.

A survey recently completed by the American Walnut manufacturers association, showed that the manufacture of gunstocks was well ahead of production schedules, outdistancing all other component parts in gun production.

Burdette Green, manager of the association, said the production records have been accomplished despite obstacle such as the manpower shortage and transportation difficulties.

With experience in making gunstocks during the last war, Green said, maunfacturers were able to swing into war production with the least possible delay.

Attention now is centered around technicalities involved in the manufacture of new-type guns for the British and in improvements in U. S. carbines, Springfields and Garands. The association runs constant tests in co-operation with the army at the Aberdeen, Md., provig grounds and at Fort Benning, G.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JUNE 24, 1943.

In Washington "the man of the hour" is lucky to last through the day.

One of the admirable by-products of this war is the facility with which the so-called "weaker sex" is learning to change tires.

An American nurse in India reports that "a triangle of apple pie will cure a soldier's nostalgia"—thus again demonstrating the efficacy of home remedies.

Mine Operators Appeal To WLB

ONE VITAL POINT that seems to be getting little attention from either coal miners or operators is that neither jobs nor mines will be worth a tinker's dam unless the war is won—AND THE WAR CANNOT BE WON WITHOUT COAL!

Surely it could have been for no other reason than recognition of the desperate need for coal that the administrative agencies of this great and powerful government have kowtowed to John L. Lewis in gaining his consent to re-open the coal mines which he closed for the third time last Sunday night.

Now the nation's coal operators are asking the War Labor Board to return to them the government-seized mines, contending that they have rights as owners.

It was the War Labor Board that ruled against a wage increase for miners, under the subterfuge of portal-to-portal pay, and at no time has Mr. Lewis recognized the authority of this wage-control board—so there is little likelihood of any such action as the operators request.

Operators should also realize that, however justifiable their position may be, it has been clearly stated by Mr. Lewis that it is only under government operation that he will permit miners to work and that any such action as the operators propose would precipitate another strike.

Production and transportation of war materials demand uninterrupted production of coal. Conditions have been permitted to develop which place John L. Lewis in position to dictate whether or not coal shall be produced. Therefore he must be "appeased"—in spite of disastrous experiences with appeasement policies in the past.

Let Detroit Serve as Warning

DETROIT has just undergone an experience that should serve to warn sound-thinking people of other large and small cities to be on guard against rabble-rousing hotheads accustomed to take leadership in acts of mob violence.

Detroit has been unfortunate in the extent to which racial antipathies have been growing for more than a year and the condition has been aggravated by an influx of white and colored workers accustomed to other environment and practices.

First hastily reached conclusion was that the wave of rioting, beatings, shooting and looting was subversively inspired, but local and federal authorities are now agreed there is no evidence to suggest organization effort to foment the trouble which resulted in 29 deaths, injuries to 700, more than 1,000 arrests, and widespread disruption of production in war industries through absenteeism.

More reasonable conclusion is that a smoldering spark of racial antagonism was set ablaze by some indiscreet act and that benighted elements in each of the groups joined in what started as a minor incident but quickly developed into a city-wide orgy of slaughter and property destruction.

Better elements in Detroit, as represented by both white and colored leaders, naturally deplore such a condition as has came about in that city and seek ways to impress each of their groups with the responsibility for good behavior which is associated with guarantee of equal rights and opportunities.

A phase of equality, as guaranteed by the constitution, that is apparently sometimes overlooked, is that safeguarding rights of minorities does not involve relinquishment of equal rights by the majority—and that, in the final analysis, it must be left to the majority, RATHER THAN TO ANY MINORITY, to establish and maintain orderly precesses of government.

No Barrier To Airport Expansion

ACCORDING to the legislative committee of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, no legal barriers stand in the way of providing funds to buy land required for municipal airport expansion under terms of the recent federal appropriation of $600,000 for the purpose of establishing a Class 4 airport here.

City council, in a preliminary discussion of the subject, sought advice from the legislative committee, all members of which are attorneys, and, in the opinion of this committee, the necessary purchase money can be made available either by transfer of present surplus funds or by issuance of bonds within the 10-mill tax limitation.

Essential next step is designation of choice of a site by engineers of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, with information as to acreage required and approximate cost, so that council may take such action as seems best in carrying through all preliminaries, in advance of the time set for start of work on the project.

This is a matter of such vital importance to the future of Mansfield and the surrounding north-central Ohio area that the desirability of complete community co-operation with government plans cannot be overemphasized.

Secret Movements Popular In Italy

CENTURIES of bad government have made the Italians experts at organizing revolutionary conspiracies. Italian unity and independence were won in the 19th century largely through the Carbonari, an oath-bound secret order. Later and less admirable examples have been the Camorra, or Tammany Hall of Naples, and the Mafia or Black Hand of Sicily. Both terrorized innocent citizens for years.

The Mussolini regime, tolerating no oppression except its own, suppressed both movements sternly. With the weakening of Fascism, they or other secret movements are likely to appear.

The coming invasion of Italy may well get useful information and tangible help from these re-born organizations.

Hitler probably wouldn't be satisfied to abide by the outcome of a Gallup poll in occupied countries.

None too soon, it appears, to start planning that helicopter trip for your first post-war vacation.

HOME-COMING WEEK IN DETROIT

Steel Production Below Needs

By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Steel and copper continue to be the two crying needs for war production. Steel production must be stepped up one million additional tons each quarter if the present program is to be carried through.

There is some argument about aluminum. Most of our experts in WPB incline to think there is plenty of the metal itself. The only question is whether additional fabrication facilities are needed.

About magnesium there is no argument at all. There is plenty of this metal about which there was so much concern a year ago. One of the reasons is that production has been stepped up with great success. Another is that more effective materials have been found for bombs.

NOT long ago in these dispatches the statement was made that there were only two finished products for which there was still an urgent demand for increased production—ships and planes. It was also pointed out that actually planes were being constructed faster than it was possible to use them.

This last sentence is important, because planes can only be used if everything else is right. What has been a bit short was proper ground crews for servicing the planes at strategic points. But the mere fact that production has run a little ahead of the capacity to apply in action does not mean that we are producing too many planes. Recent losses in the big bombing raids in Europe show that we will need a great many more planes.

To illustrate this situation. If twenty U. S. bombers are shot down over Germany, those twenty bombers can be replaced at once with no additional strain on our present ground crews in Britain. We must have the new planes to take the place of those lost, and we must have trained aviators to man them. But the ground crews meanwhile will have suffered no loss at all.

As the ground crews are increased, we can use additional planes PLUS those needed for replacement.

As this is written we are building up additional facilities for servicing planes for the coming invision of continental Europe. So it is a mighty necessary thing to have a big backlog of planes—and aviators to man them—to fill the gaps which must come when large scale action starts.

THE PREVIOUS article mentioned that there was an abundance of shells, bombs ammunition, poison gas (in case the Axis starts using it) etc. That statement has been criticized by a high ordnance officer. He told the writer that we would need such a tremendous backlog of guns, ammunition, explosives, etc., that there could not be too much.

"Why we haven't started to fight the war," he said. "This business in North Africa was fine. But that was just like a sparring bout which a contender for the heavyweight championship has before the big fight. When we get to fighting for keeps, so to speak, we will be throwing everything we have at them, and we will be mighty glad to have a little more than some folks seem to think we are going to need. War burns up things mighty fast."

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

WELL of course if you want to, you can believe that Hitler or the Ku Klux Klan or both stirred up the Detroit race riot.

But if you want to be strictly factual and accurate you will turn back the pages of your photo album a couple of years.

You will see the overturned automobiles, the mobs, the maniacs with the clubs, the broken heads, the fleeing men just as you saw such things in the pictures this week.

The differences are that nobody suggested then that Hitler or the KKK was promoting the riot; there was no proclamation, order or suggestion from Washington that the rioters disperse and go home; and it wasn't a color riot.

It was the scene outside the Ford plant during the big strike there and don't tell me it wasn't because I was there.

* * *

If you like you can turn back still further—to 1937 when the sitdown strike introduced rule by mob in Detroit and Washington said "everything's all right—the boys are within their rights."

Timely Editorial

Female Rip Van Winkle.

Women having invaded every other field, why not a female Rip Van Winkle?

And, lo and behold, we've found her.

Her name is Frances Perkins and she is secretary of labor. She stirred in her sleep slightly and said:

"American labor made a pledge to the president and that's that. I think they will keep their word."

Her reference was to the "no-strike pledge" and her labor department recently reported there were more strikes in May than any other month since Pearl Harbor.

Miss Perkins still has some time to go to equal Rip's record: He slept on a mountain for 20 years. She has slumbered in the cabinet only half as long.—Cleveland Press.

Dave Boone Says:

HANK KAISER, who is making everything else, is now going to make helicopters after the war and in quantity production. A helicopter is the nearest thing to a foolproof airplane ever made. It's already way ahead of where the flivver was when Hank Ford made his first one.

It can rise straight up like the prices of tenderloins, needing no runway or OPA threat and you just keep going up in it till you're clear of all traffic, nervousness, indecision, street odors or Gallup poll takers. It's fun.

But the best part is coming down. You don't need any more room than Santa Claus or a seagull, and not as much as a banshee or a duck.

You can go backwards in it too. Well, once this war is over, nobody will want to go backward any more, but there will be a terrible yen to be free as a bird and do a little traveling without any barriers, taboos, stop signs, don't lists, etc.

You can land in one of these things on a half-dollar.

That's going to be the only big drawback as I see it. After the war where will you find that much money?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Germany's Changed Propaganda Indicates Nazi-Military Break

WASHINGTON—Inside reports indicate that Nazi propaganda for domestic consumption has suddenly changed direction, and changed sharply. German government officials are now speaking boldly and bluntly to the people, with the idea of shocking them into realization of the rigors that lie ahead, and to make them work and fight for their lives.

The Diplomatic Corps has received word that the Nazi gauleiter at Hamburg made a speech warning his audience that there is a traditional weakness in the German character, which sometimes fails at the final punch—a lack of perserverence necessary to carry a dogged fight to a successful conclusion.

At the same time it is learned that Goebbels has made a speech in much the same vein.

This is regarded as indicating not only that Germany is in desperate circumstances, but also—somewhat more important—that the military are now in control, and the Nazi party leaders have climbed down from the top notch of leadership.

Realistic expression is typical of the military attitude which has long been opposed to the political palaver of the Nazi party leaders.

At the same time Washington officials learn that Nazi party leaders are making rules intended to defend the party against attack and aspersions. This apparently indicates that the party's being attacked from within the country, obviously by the military elements.

This is the fatal crack in Germany — the split between the military elements and the Nazi party. When the final blow-up comes, though it may not be for a long time, it will be between the Nazis and the military.

Wallace's Garden.

PROFESSIONAL photographers would give their eye teeth for a shot of Henry Wallace, dressed in blue slacks, standing on top of a manure pile.

It is the vice president's own manure pile, and he is proud of it. He has prepared it himself by mixing vegetable matter and manure, layer by layer, and watering it with the garden hose. The result is something he calls by the more delicate name of "compost pile," and which he dearly needs for fertilizing his Victory garden.

At the moment, Wallace was standing on top of the old pile so that he could throw some of the manure down to cover the old pea vines. The vines had yielded their crop for the season, and he had torn them up by the roots, and was adding them to the compost pile.

He had to do something about the soil. It was made by dumping fill from excavations, when neighboring houses were built. "The soil is so bad," says Mr. Wallace, "that it won't even grow good weeds."

But it will grow good tomatoes. Wallace has gone strong on tomatoes. In fact, Mrs. Wallace, who gets out every morning to work with him before breakfast, thinks he has too many tomato plants. She counted them the other day, and found there were 480.

Almost any evening around seven, you will find the vice president of the United States pushing between his rows of tomatoes, while Mrs. Wallace, working with a hoe, flicks a little handkerchief in front of her face to drive the gnats away.

"Henry," she says, "how does it happen the gnats don't trouble you? There's not a one around you, and look at the cloud around me."

"They are sensitive, my dear, to the state of mind of the individual!" says the vice president, implying that if his wife would be calm about it, the gnats would go away.

Weaker Liquor.

THOUGH the public is generally unaware of it, much of the whisky being sold today is inferior both in quality and quantity to pre-war liquor.

As expressed in the trade, "We have dropped a couple of degrees." This is another way of saying that whisky which used to be 90 proof is now 85. In other words, the distillers are diluting their product to make it go farther.

There are limits to this, for the law provides a minimum of 80 proof for anything marketed as whisky.

Likewise there is a general trend toward retailing whisky in "fifths," or one-fifth of a gallon, instead of quarts.

Distillers' explanation for this is the necessity of making liquor go farther with limited supplies. Reduced supplies are reflected in the fact that 1943 consumption of distilled liquors is falling off sharply from 1942. January of this year showed a drop of 24 per cent from January, 1942. February, March and April were off 17, 12, and 10 per cent respectively.

Note: All-time high for any one month in the history of the liquor business was last October, when, just before the new tax went on, the public bought 26 million gallons of distilled spirits.

Grant and Lincoln—1943.

ON A HOT summer day in Washington a conference was held between Lincoln and General Grant had received the conference was the identification of emergency vehicles operating during possible air raids.

General grant had received complaints from Eastern Seaboard cities to the effect that air raid regulations are causing an increase in automobile accidents. But before the conference was over Grant agreed with Lincoln that the present regulations should not be changed.

Major General Ulysses S. Grant, III, is Assistant Director of OCD in charge of protection activities. Col. Ralph A. Lincoln is Assistant Civil Affairs Officer on the staff of Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, Chief of the Eastern Defense Command.

Note: General Grant, with a long record as an army engineer, supervised the construction of the Memorial bridge which crosses the Potomac river between the Lincoln Memorial building and the Lee home on the Virginia side.

ERNIE PYLE — Roving Reporter

Ernie Enjoys All-Day Flight Along the Nile; Gets a Glimpse of Cairo and Visits Pyramids.

SOMEWHERE IN AFRICA—(By Wireless)—We came down one noon-time upon a heat-baked desert airdrome in the center of Africa. It was just about as faraway from anywhere as I can conceive.

At first all their gasoline had to be brought a hundred miles by camel train. Even now it is brought across a long desert only by truck, and so sandy and wasted are the trails that it takes nearly as long as by camel.

There are only three dozen American soldiers there to run the airdrome. Were it not for the planes that stop daily for gas, their isolation would be unbearable.

We were on the ground just an hour, and during that hour I discovered that in this fantastically remote spot two copies of this column arrive every day. One set is passed around among the enlisted men to read, and one among the officers.

I suppose it's the only place in the world where I can say the column is read by 100 per cent of the population. We will table the motion just heard that when you're that far away from home you'll read anything.

AND of course I found a Hoosier there also. Not one but two of them. One was right from the banks of the Wabash. This was Pfc. George Richardson, who gets his mail either through Covington or Gessie, Ind., just up the road a few miles from my town of Dana. George was a pipefitter's helper before the war. Now he's a mechanic.

The other one wore a natty sun helmet and high leather boots and had a pointed mustache. I thought at first he was an Englishman, but no, he was just plain Capt. Harold Lawler, of Indianapolis. He had been in this devastating spot six months already, and he didn't think it was so bad.

We flew nearly all day down the Nile. In my mental pictures of the great river it had always been dotted with those little Egyptian sailboats with their white sails puffed out, and sure enough, on our very first glimpse—where the White and Blue Niles run together near Khartoum — there were the little sailboats.

It is wretched, tortured and forbidding country on either side of the Nile, but the river creates for itself a sheathing of green loveliness, and for a thousand miles it makes a vivid tracing through its background of gray waste.

I had heard so much about the vast and fertile Nile valley that I had supposed it was a hundred miles across. Actually, all the way south from Cairo, it is hardly more than 10 miles wide—just a narrow strip of green on each side of the river and then you are suddenly out in the desert again.

AT LAST I have been to Cairo. To see Cairo and to sit on the terrace of Shepheard's hotel at the crossroads of the world and see somebody I knew walk by had been among my minor ambitions for years. Now they have both been realized. The familiar face that passed on Shepheard's terrace was that of Cliff Henderson, of National Air Races fame.

But there was something about Cairo that made me unhappy. Perhaps it was Cairo's horn of plenty. I have lived so long now that austerity has come to seem more honorable than luxury.

Cairo was once frightened, but now all the war danger has receded and the city thrums and throbs as though it had never been afraid at all. The spirit of Cairo is trade, and trade is flourishing. Soldiers are better spenders than the tourists ever were. And you can still buy anything in the world in Cairo, I believe, provided you have enough money. You can get silk stockings ($4 a pair), Bourbon whisky, razor blades (90 cents for a tiny pack), or precious star rubies and emeralds. And you can get fine food.

I went to see the Pyramids in a jeep and found they were too steep for me to climb. The Sphinx did not speak to me, and I decided he was silent because he probably had nothing to say. At Shepheard's I shooed away the gully-gully boys, and in Khalili I was set upon by droves of aspiring merchants who persisted like desert flies. The spirit that flowed through Cairo irritated and frightened me. Maybe I was all wrong, but I was glad to get out of there.

A Farmer's Diary

Trouble Shooter

"I GET AROUND, into many types of homes," the trouble-shooter said. "I've been on the job 30 years, and I've learned what a home really is. It's not a fine house and costly china and expensive breeds o' dogs . . . It's not shiny limousines, nor fine clothes, nor servants—it's folks. I've been in some wealthy homes where it was as homey as anything—the people were kindly, and interested in me, asked about my children and where I lived—wanted to help me every way they could . . . wanted to help me help myself. Sometimes I go out of my way to pass that kind of place just for the good feeling of looking at it. The delivery boy and the caretaker feel the same way.

"Yesterday was a typical day, I suppose. I had worked in three different places. In the first house, my shoes were half buried in the soft thick carpet. Things were so super-de-luxe that I hesitated on a landing until a servant directed me to the bedroom where the instrument stood that needed repairs.

"While I was working, the servant spoke to the daughter of that house, a young lady of 18 or 20 who was still in bed in an adjoining room although it was after 10 o'clock. I remarked that it was a pity for such a young person to miss the best part of a fine June morning by lying abed. The serving woman shrugged. 'I take her breakfast in sometime before noon if she calls,' she said. 'She has nothing to do — why should she get up?'

"That afternoon I was called to a home on a 300-acre estate. A young man of somewhere in the twenties led me to the stable where there were a dozen riding horses, and said the office was off to the left. There was a lake for fishing, a motor boat, a private swimming pool, forests and endless lawns with shrubbery and winding paths and flowers. Just for fun I said to the young fellow 'How do you like it here?'

"And he told me 'NOT SO HOT.'

"From there I went to a two-room garage cottage at the other edge of town. A young woman came to the door with a small baby in her arms. While I was working she sang the little youngster to sleep. She had a sweet face and a low voice, I said, "These little houses aren't so bad," and she said, "Why no—it's nice here.' John's in the army, and when he gets back, we'll build a better house. He writes about it in almost every letter.'

"Two little neighbor girls sat on the step of the next cottage and swung their dolls to the rhythm of that mother's lullaby. Seemed like the happiness of that young soldier's home was more'n a simple garage could possibly hold. It overflowed. That man is lucky. He has a home to come back to."

ndsome Stan Stanislawski his little pal Smitty—the for- garbed spectacularly and the r in a dark suit, white tie black hat (both outfits by esy of the American Red s) were plying the waters of Central Park lake in a hired oat. As is usual on bright ner Saturday afternoons, a derable number of sailors of Jnited States Navy were do- likewise.

nislawski, at the oars, looked ufully at the jaunty white in the boats all around them. e!" he said, shaking his head agly, "Wouldn'tcha think dopes would stay ashore fer v minutes, once they git the ze?"

Then, after they squealing, you take off your nd say, 'Sorry, ladies! I am d Mr. Victor Mature didn't where he was going!' Just the rest to me!"

e collision was brought off ssfully. Simultaneously, from bottom of the other boat, reared up a naval petty r with the approximate que and exact facial ex- ion of Gargantua, the well- n gorilla. He snatched an rom one of his damsels and a mighty but futile swipe it. "Scram, you lousy bums!" ared.

ien they had retreated a safe nce down the lake, "M'mf! well," Stanislawski produced ket comb, arranged his hair hen resumed the oars. "Well, ose we might as well go e and see if we can scare up thing there."

uir, I guess we better," d Smitty. "You and I gotta ourselves a little family life where, between now and to- ow morning!"

th the chin of his bowed head g on his chest and his hand ed behind him, Mr. Rossi ed slowly through the misty, - glowing night of West ty-Third street. His brow clouded and his somewhat nine face was deathly pale. time to time his lips ned and trembled, as though ng to express dark thoughts; he would shake his head vio- , as though bidding the hts begone, and freeze his into a thin, straight line. ooked neither to right nor he seemed oblivious of the of his fellow men and even s own corporeal self. Here, would have said, was a man walked alone with some sorrow, even as Dante d the streets of Florence, ning his dead Beatrice. As a r of fact, however, Mr. Rossi nerely drunk.

v, Mr. Rossi did not drink but when he did drink, he drank. There was nothing gay or frolicsome about his jags; he did not laugh, sing, caper or stagger; indeed, the drunker he got, the sadder, quieter, colder and steadier he became. Yes, and the deadlier! Thus, rapt in gloomy thought and heeding not the traffic lights, he stepped off the curb into Seventh avenue. A taxi driver slammed on his brakes and came screeching to a stop, bare inches from him. "Wake up, louse!" he admonished.

—SWISH! Mr. Rossi's right fist whipped around from behind him like a cobra. —SOCK! . . . and the taxi driver went out cold. Without so much as a change of expression or a single backward glance, Mr. Rossi continued on his melancholy, somnambulistic way.

At Seventeenth street, by a sort of reflex action, he turned into a saloon. Vaguely, he saw that the bar was crowded with men, but though two or three of them nodded respectfully, he seemed not to notice.

"Well, what'll it be, Mac?" the bartender inquired, wiping the mahogany with his towel.

"Six double whiskies and a triple one," said Mr. Rossi, sepulchrally.

"Hunh? Oh, quit yer kidding, Mac! C'mon, now, I'm busy! What'll . . ."

Very slowly Mr. Rossi raised his head and looked the bartender straight in the eye. "Six . . . double whiskies . . . and . . . a triple one!" he repeated, but this time his voice was cold with menace.

"Okay! Okay!" said the bartender, hastily setting up the seven glasses and poring them as ordered.

A hush fell upon the room. As though in a trance, Mr. Rossi took up a double whisky in each hand; then, left, right, GULP! GULP! he emptied them in two swallows. Setting down the glasses, he snatched up the next pair and—GULP! GULP! their contents vanished. GULP! GULP! came the twin sounds again and lo, six empty glasses stood in a row on the bar before him. A gasp went up from the crowd. The thing had been swift, mechanical, precise, like the working of a skillfully handled machine gun; Now, they expected to see him cough, sputter, or perhaps go out like a light. Instead, they heard him murmur, dreamily, "Well, I guess I'll have a little drink!" and saw him sipping his triple whisky in the slow, conservative manner of one who restricts himself to a single snort per day and likes to make it last.

A wondering murmur went up, dominated by a note of admiration. "Jeeze! D'ja see that?"

"Some boy!"

"Zowie! That's knocking 'em over!"

"Say, who is that guy? Know him, Stan?"

"Him? Sure!" said Stanislawski. "That's Rossi, the mate of the ship Smitty and I just got sunk on. He's quite a guy! Say, you haven't seen Smitty come in yet, have you?"

"Unh-unh!"

"Well, I wonder what's keepin' him? We—we kinder got separated, up in the park. He was supposed to meet me here between ten and eleven." Stanislawski scowled up at the clock and then sipped his beer moodily, as though the day had brought its disappointments.

* * *

Abruptly, Mr. Rossi set his empty glass upon the bar and fell to cursing softly. His voice was little louder than a whisper —sibilant, menacing, but as far as the present company was concerned, utterly impersonal. He seemed to be cursing someone far away, or someone in the dark, distant past. He cursed and cursed and cursed, blasphemies and obscenities hissing and tumbling from his pale lips like an icy mountain from a precipice.

"Jeeze, Stan—that guy's good!"

"—Joe Rossi? Sure he's good! Whad I tell ya?—I only wish I knew what's happened to little Sm . . . Oh, there he is! Hey, Smitty! Here I am, Smitty! Say, you little jerk! Where ya been?"

Smitty, whose face bore the imprints of well-rouged lips and who was carrying his collar and his necktie in his hand, rolled his eyes rapturously and took a long drag at Stanislawski's beer.

"Boy, did I need that!" he said, weakly but gratefully. "Quick—order one for me, Stan—I gotta regain me strength!"

" . . . Hunh? Why, say, you little disserpated runt, you! . . . What's happened to yer so-called strength, hunh? And what's happened to yer bankroll?"

By way of answer Smitty closed his eyes, kissed his finger-tips, then waved them airily toward the ceiling. "Gone!" he breathed. "All gone! Gone wit'd wind! Ah, Veronica!" He hugged himself passionately and then helped himself to another swig of Stanislawski's beer.

"Smith-h-h! S-S-Stanislawski!"

The voice was not loud, but instinctively, the pair stiffened and turned respectfully toward it.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE HOLD CHAPTER NIGHT

Mrs. V. C. Hageman and Membership Committee Present Program at Moose Home; Initiate Candidates, Install Officers at Meet.

THE CHAPTER NIGHT program of the Women of the Moose, Mansfield chapter No. 47, held Wednesday night at the Moose home was under the direction of the membership committee with Mrs. V. C. Hageman as chairman.

There were 115 members present for the meeting. The business meeting and formal initiation were in charge of the senior regent, Mrs. Lester Perry. The fifteen candidates were Mrs. Harold Maddy, Mrs. Watson Lynn, Mrs. Ray Armstrong, Mrs. Russell Bell, Mrs. Robert Springer, Mrs. William Carter, Mrs. Kenneth Layland, Mrs. Robert Coleman, Mrs. Joseph Sziraki, Mrs. Max Trepeta, and the Misses Ethel Beard, Evelyn Zoll, Katherine Brumm, Josephine Stone and Anne Pashelich.

The class was initiated in Mrs. Perry's honor. Each candidate wore a rose, a gift from the membership committee.

Guest speaker for the evening was Rev. Martin Wappner, chaplain at the Ohio State Reformatory. He gave an interesting talk on "Obedience, Service and Responsibility." Two vocal solos were sung by C. W. Hegnauer, accompanied by Mrs. Helen Heston.

The officers for the ensuing year were installed. The installing officers were Miss Ruth Roesch, regent; Mrs. Joseph Gresser, guide; Mrs. Lester Raby, chaplain, and Mrs. Earl Beilstein, pianist. Each newly installed officer was seated by sixteen members of the ritual committee who were dressed in red and white.

The new officers are Mrs. John Stentz, senior regent; Mrs. H. H. Donley, junior regent; Miss Anita Payne, chaplain; Mrs. Clarence Rist, treasurer; Mrs. Howard Hannon, recorder, and Mrs. Lester Perry, junior graduate regent. The appointments installed were Mrs. Florence Blunk, pianist; Mrs. Dallas Tupps, argus; Mrs. Elmer Bletz, sentinel; Mrs. Margery Peppard, guide, and Mrs. Buella Richards, assistant guide.

A short talk was given by each refiring officer. Mrs. Hageman introduced the members of her committee. She was presented with a gift and a corsage of roses from her committee by Mrs. Warren Baker.

Mrs. Louis Wiparina presented the chapter with a war bond from the library committee. A bond from the war relief committee was presented by Mrs. Dallas Tupps, and one from the membership committee by Mrs. Hageman.

Personal gifts were presented to Mrs. Perry by Mrs. Elmer Bletz, Mrs. Louis Pillar and Mrs. Hageman. Mrs. Howard Hannon, recorder, received a gift from the chapter presented by Mrs. Perry and one from the publiciy committee presented by Mrs. C. K. Altman.

Mrs. Pillar received a gift and corsage. Mrs. Altman received a gift from the ritual committee. Mrs. Kenneth Knackstedt, a former member now residing in California, sent a box of fruit to the publicity committee.

A party for the new candidates will be held on June 30. Miss Ruth Roesch, graduate regent, will be in charge. The next regular meeting will be on July 7 at the Moose home.

Will the War Marriages Be Successful?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

They were whirling around on floor of a USO dance. The ys were in uniform. The girls their brightly colored frocks re like a blossoming border, ng a garden path. It was a ely sight. You could see by way these youngsters looked each other, that Cupid had ired heavily.

No wonder the papers are full lovely pictures of brides and oms and wedding bells and nouncements of engagements weddings to come. As I tched this crowd dancing, perps I said something sentimento the old bachelor who was ting beside me.

'In a year or two they'll all be ting divorce," he replied.

'And why should they be get- g divorces?" I asked.

'Because they're in love with e, with life, and the boys are ng off to war, and the comation is too much for human ure. Youngsters who marry der that sort of pressure wind in Reno."

I don't believe you," I said, I continued to watch the urming young creatures who iced spiritedly and carefree, t as youngsters danced before Battle of Waterloo.

and I hoped that despite sepaions necessitated by war, they uld naturally develop qualities ich make marriage a success. wish for the girls if they had take jobs in defense plants, y'd keep their womaniiness; proverbial if a girl does, she ps her man, if she has neither uty nor brains.

hoped that the boys they'd rmed would not, because of adoration their uniform wins m, become out-and-out philaners, chasing every pretty face ch crosses their paths. And oped that when the fighting is an end, the boys would come ne, sane, sober and healthy. have the ability to make a ent living for a family, even their wives decided to keep ir jobs for a time at least.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

DICKY GAVE a very credible imitation of a glare at me, but he did not shut off the twinkle in his eyes quite soon enough to make his irate look convincing.

"If you mean," he said slowly, and with ice tinkling artistically in his voice, "that you are going to gum up the works by insisting on being present at this little seance, then I throw up my hands. I won't tackle the job at all."

"You wouldn't miss it for millions," I told him saucily, "and you know it."

He grinned at me. "Well, maybe I wouldn't," he acknowledged, "but that doesn't alter this fact, light of my life: You aren't going to be in the same room with that polecat. You'll hamper my style."

"I don't want to be in the same room with her," I said.

He turned on me, putting his hands on his hips. "There are two rooms here," he said, "this and the bedroom. Katharine is going to be in there, and she says she doesn't want to hear or see Ruth Hayes. In order to gratify that wish, the bedroom door will have to be closed and locked. Now, will you kindly tell me where you intend to park your charming, but highly irritating self?"

Madge Will Hide

"Right here," I told hem, walking sedately to the side of the room, and opening the door of one of its commodious closets. "You see I have put a drapery just inside the door to protect my clothing from dust. With the door just a little ajar, I'm sure Ruth will never notice it, and by drawing the drapery aside a bit from where the door hinges, I shall have a good box seat, provided you are accommodating enough either to have her stand or sit in line with my eyes. I even can take a chair in with me."

I heard a chuckle from Katharine, but my husband stared at me as if I were something strange and puzzling.

"Did you fly in the window, or door?" he demanded. "You're an absolutely new variety of mosquito to me. I guess though, you get your man, allee samee the Mounties. But let me warn you, woman. You'll have to take other things than a chair inside that door. Supply yourself with cough drops and clothes pins for your nose. If you dare to cough or sneeze, or make any other sound, I'll—I'll toss you to Ruth Hayes, and let her go to work on you."

"A mouse will have nothing on me," I told him.

"A mouse!" he roared. "Noisiest thing in the world! Did you ever hear a mouse in the pantry? No, beloved. That won't do."

"I meant a dead mouse," I told him, wrinkling my nose at him. "But, really, I promise you Dicky, I won't make the silghtest sound. And I do thank you for letting me stick around."

"Letting you!" He raised his hands far above his head and shook them. "Dear Allah listen to the woman! You've simply moved up your troops and made camp. However, I promised at the altar to cherish you, and I suppose supplying box seats at a sparring match comes in that category. I warn you, though, this isn't going to be a pretty spectacle. No holds are barred, and blows below the belt will be not only permitted but expected. Now is there anything else I ought to know about this shindig before I go into action?"

Plans Complete.

"Not a thing more that I can tell you," I said. "You seem to have everything planned. Father will be back after awhile, and you can go over the final details with him. And of course, there may be no need of any of this preparation. Ruth Hayes may accept the wire about Katharine's illness at face value."

"And then wouldn't you be disappointed?" my husband queried ghoulishly. Then he relented and grinned at me. "Don't worry! From what I've heard of her, she'll be here as soon as she can make it after she gets the wire. Now, tell me some more about this Olina business. I don't suppose Dad wants me to double in brass over at that hotel too, does he?"

I heard a chuckle from Katharine and knew that she was on mischief bent.

"It's Madge who's going to double over there, but not in brass," she said.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, June 25.

Judging by the lunar and mutual aspects of note, this is a most auspicious time for putting over unusual projects. Any ideas or skills out of the beaten path should win approval and financial support if managed with practical constructive demonstration of convincing cleverness. But it would be wise not to neglect responsibilities or obligations in order to launch such progressive plans. Be ready for change, travel or some surprising or romantic turn of the tide.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of surprise and adventure with probable change, travel or other dramatic experience. It may be a highly propitious year for making public some ingenious invention, a new or novel technique or skill in an extraordinary creative form. Be alert to envy, jealousy or suspicion, from subtle sources.

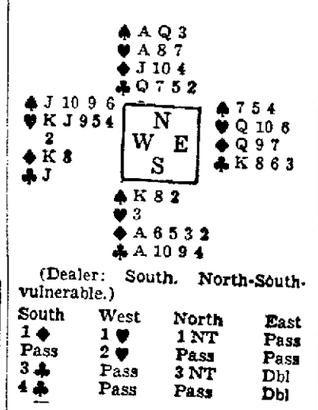
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TOPS AND BOTTOMS

Duplicate play is extremely interesting to the kibitzer who picks out some promising hand early in a session and then follows it from table to table to see what is done with it. Sometimes he will find one which gets played about equally at two entirely different contracts, either of which can be made by perfect play, but also either of which can be beaten by the declarer's slips. No matter how fine may be the players engaged, you are likely to find both contracts made and beaten.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	1 ♥	1 NT	Pass
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 NT	Dbl
4 ♣	Pass	Pass	Dbl

That bidding brought the top score to the declarer. Simon Rossant, in the recent Eastern championships in New York. But let's start with the bottom, gained by a player who has ranked No. 1 in the whole world in his best season. He was a 3-No Trumps declarer in the North, and East led the heart 6. He won that with the A, then finessed the club 10 to the singleton J. Five hearts then set him two tricks. At another table that contract was made because North, after winning with the heart A, considered his best chance to run nine consecutive tricks was to lead the club Q. East covered, the A won, dropping the J, and repeated club finesses trapped East's other clubs, producing four tricks in the suit.

Mr. Rossant's top score came from getting two extra tricks on his 4-Clubs doubled. The spade J was led to the A, and he led the club Q, which East covered, the A winning. A diamond toward the dummy brought forth West's K and a spade return. A diamond finesse and repeated club finesse gave him the rest of the tricks. On this same contract, another declarer who has been No. 1 of the world for a season got himself set. He lost two club tricks by finessing the 10 to the J, and a later one to the 8, plus two diamond tricks because he first led the J and East refused to cover, so that the defense scored with both the K and the 9, after the Q covered the 10 lead.

BATTLE FRONTS DESCRIBED IN 3 NEW VOLUMES

Russia's Fight, Stories of U. S. Bomber Crew, Commando Operations on List.

First-hand information on the Allies—fighting men on the battle fronts of the world and fighting people at home—is found in three of the new books at the Mansfield public library.

MOTHER RUSSIA, by Maurice Hindus, is an unforgettable picture of the Russia of 1942, the Russia that fought and toiled, that marched and sang, that tightened its belt and shook its fist, that talked and laughed. This Russia is revealed in a new garb, with a new image, a new discipline, a new dedication, portrayed with the inner conviction, the first-hand information and on-the-scene mastery of the author of "Russia and Japan," one of our foremost interpreters of the modern Russian scene.

QUEENS DIE PROUDLY, by W. L. White, is the story of the famous 19th and 7th Bombardment group, the story of Lt. Col. Frank Kurtz and his Fortress crew in the tremendous air campaign that saved the day for the United Nations in the South Pacific, written with the same technique which made "They Were Expendable" the first great story of our war. Beginning with the tragic day in the Philippines when most of our Far Eastern air force died on the ground, we follow the Fortresses from island to island through the fall of Java to the heroic stand off Australia when American planes and ships stopped the Japanese and started us on the long road to Tokyo.

COMBINED OPERATIONS is the official story of the Commandos. In the actual words of the men who took part in these daring operations, Hilary St. George Saunders, Britain's "anonymous" author, describes the efficiency, courage and nonchalance of these heroes of the navy, army and air forces. It is the complete story of combined operation activities since the beginning of the Commandos.

Sir Thomas Beecham, one of the world's greatest conductors, tells in his book, A MINGLED CHIME, the full story of his varied life. Sir Thomas has been conducting orchestras since the early years of this century—he has known all the great of the musical world; he has observed keenly, and he records his experiences, up to 1924, with all the humor, ease and fluency of a born writer.

Other non-fiction includes WE CHINESE WOMEN, Chiang (Mme. Chiang Kai-shek); DYNAMITE CARGO; CONVOY TO RUSSIA, Herman; THE ENGLISH PEOPLE, Brogan; THE NATURE AND DESTINY OF MAN, Niebuhr; BROTHERS UNDER THE SKIN, McWilliams; ON BEING A REAL PERSON, Fosdick; SHINING RAIN, Welshimer; THE LAST DAYS OF SEVASTOPOL, Voitekhov; THE SILENT WAR, Jansen and Weyl; THE NEW YORK YANKEES, Graham.

HUNGRY HILL, by Daphne Du Maurier depicts the bitter struggle between the proud, semi-aristocratic, land-owning Brodericks attempting to escape the destiny inherent in their way of life, and their sly, improvident and vicious neighbors, the Donovans. The descriptions of the Irish coast are skillfully handled, but the novel is particularly notable for the new maturity of its characterization, and the skill with which the author undertakes a large work covering five stormy generations, starting in 1820 and continuing for a hundred years.

THE LIGHTS AROUND THE SHORE, by Jerome Weidman, is entirely different from the other novels which he has written, notably "I can get it for you wholesale." As the story opens shortly before the outbreak of the present war, a boy of sixteen leaves for Europe with his young and pretty aunt. He doesn't know why they are going, and he finds soon enough that their destination is not what he was led to expect. In the course of an exciting and sometimes terrifying chase through France and with the help of Mme. Margot, the fabulous dress designer, Peter solves the mystery of his aunt's trip to Europe and in solving it, leaves his childhood behind him forever.

The action of COLONEL EFFINGHAM'S RAID, by Berry Fleming, takes place in a small southern city. The hero, Colonel Effingham, retired, comes back to his home city and becomes military commentator for the local paper. The book is most entertaining and gently satirical.

Other fiction includes THE YEAR OF AUGUST, Saxon; THE DEAD LOOK ON, Kersh; THE MAN NEXT DOOR, Eberhart.

JOBS PLANNED FOR AIRMEN

Airlines Map New Routes, Including Moscow Run, For Post-War Era.

(By International News Service)

BOSTON—Peacetime jobs for the many pilots this war is producing!

Thit, in the opinion of Samuel J. Solomon, president of Northeast Airlines, Inc., should be the aim of the powers behind aviation.

Solomon likened post-war planning to Mark Twain's famous words: "Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it."

Not so with aviation, he asserted. Already, his company has filed with the Civil Aeronautics board applications for permission to establish a regular air route from the U. S. A. to Moscow, with scheduled stops throughout Europe.

And in order to help absorb the huge number of pilots the war inevitably will produce, Solomon has asked the CAB for the right to establish a helicopter service to carry airmail and air express to and from roofs of some 400 postoffices and railroad stations throughout New England and New York.

The helicopter, he added, might also be used to provide a shuttle service between outlying communities and air fields reserved for trans-Atlantic passenger or freight service.

Solomon visualized roof-top gasoline and service stations, and declared he looked forward to the day when the helicopter would be produced to carry 10, 20 or more passengers.

Returning to popular trans-Atlantic travel by air, the executive said the time is coming when persons other than those with a good deal of time would be able to travel to Europe. He clarified his statement by adding that a person with a ten-day vacation would have time enough to go to Europe, spend some time there, and return in plenty of time to report to work.

He doubted, however, that rates would compare with average present-day transportation overseas.

"It will always cost you more to send a telegram than it will to send a letter," he explained.

EARN ABOUT TROPICAL ILLS

dical Officers Get Quick Course In Tropical Medicine.

(By United Press)

VASHINGTON—Medical offi- s from civilian life, destined to ve in tropical countries over- s, are getting quick courses in pical medicine at the army dical center here.

They receive eight weeks of in- sified work, three-quarters of ich is devoted to tropical medi- e and malaria. At least one of- er who has had this training l be assigned to each overseas t.

Newspapermen who visited the dical center and Walter Reed neral hospital saw the current ss busily at work.

There were 240 members. The ar's output will include about 200 officers. In addition, the hool has trained about 30 pro- ssors from medical college, d will train a number of state alth officials.

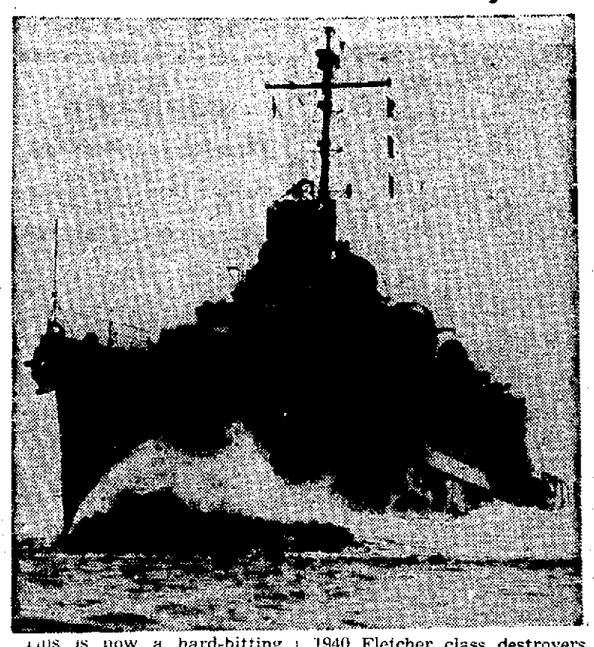
Malaria, though strictly speak- not a tropical disease, is found st often in tropical areas. Dys- ery is another menace, while ria is a danger in certain areas the South Seas.

Malaria is fought with atabrine plasmochin, synthetic substi- es for quinine, both as a preven- and a cure. Protective cloth- mosquito nets and screened ng quarters are all protective asures, since malaria is mosqui- borne.

Dysentary is contracted through ure food and water. It is ght with sanitary measures.

Filaria is caused by minute rms transmitted by mosquitoes.

U-Boat View of Destroyer



This is now a hard-hitting American destroyer appears to any enemy submarine that happens to get in its path. The U. S. S. Nicholas, one of the 1940 Fletcher class destroyers, is pictured forging swiftly ahead as she would in attacking an undersea craft. This is an official United States Navy photo.

The worms find their way into the blood stream and cause fever. Elephantiasis is a chronic stage of the disease. Antimony drugs are used as a cure, while screening and protective clothing are preventives.

At the army veterinary school, also located at the medical center, are laboratories where all foods of animal origin destined for the troops are tested, including meats, eggs and dairy products. One of the new foods recently tested was canned "ham and eggs."

The Veterinary corps not only watches out for the health of the soldier by inspecting his food, but also the health of all army animals.

Vaccines for preventing equine encephalomyelitis, horse sleeping sickness, made by the school staff, have protected all army animals from this dreaded disease for more than four years. Brig. Gen. R. A. Kelser, chief of the Army Veterinary Corps, discovered this disease was transmited by mosquitoes.

Subsequently, a vaccine was developed from chicken embryos. Some 1,200 live embryos are brought in from commercial chicken hatcheries at a time to make the vaccine, which is stored until needed for use.

WANTS TO DROP 9 LETTERS

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—(U.P.)—Francis John Schneiderlochmer, a Camp Elliot marine, has asked the court here to shorten his name by nine letters, because as it now stands it causes one to ask him questions. The part to which he objects is the first half, which he says causes people to suspect that there is something German about it. He wants to be known just as John Lochmer, which he says does not cause anyone to get inquisitive.

SPONSOR CAMPAIGN

BUCYRUS—A bottle and phonograph record collection campaign to raise funds to send Boy Scouts to camp next month, has been undertaken by members of Boy Scout Troop 22.

Here's Sample of How Yanks and RAF Smash at Axis Around the Clock

Night and day the bombing of Axis Europe goes on, with the R. A. F. flying the night shift and American Flying Fortresses delivering their cargoes by day. Typical of these attacks is the bombing of the harbor at Leghorn, Italy, shown in these photos, by Fortresses. "It's "bombs away," left, as the planes drop their loads. Results of direct hits on rail yards, ships, docks and other installations are seen in photo above which shows smoke and flames towering up. Army Air Forces photos.

RAISE OUTPUT

PORTLAND, Ore. —(U.P.)— Northwest aluminum plants, mainly in the Portland area, now are producing 50 per cent more than the total national output before the war, according to Raymond Miller, engineer.
